Two Different Americas Converge On Convention

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Miami Beach — Two different Americas converged on Convention Hall Monday night as Republicans cleared the way for the renomination of President Nixon Tuesday.

Outside, gathered under the light sprinkle of a gloomy sky, were the protestors, listening to Jane Fonda and other speakers condemn the President's Vietnam policies.

Inside the brightly-lighted, flag-bedecked hall, Republican delegates and their guests, including hundreds of enthusiastic young Republicans in the balconies, listened as speaker after speaker praised Nixon for moving U.S. involvement in Vietnam toward an end.

Different Attire
The protestors were dressed in denim and khaki; the delegates were colorfully attired and splendidly coiffed.

Outside, blacks dotted the lines of protestors; inside the hall, they were hard to find.

But both Americas had one small common thread of similarity. Outside it was Jane Fonda, the actress, speaking; inside it was Ronald Reagan, the former actor.

Four Years
"Four more years," the young Republicans chanted in a gathering roar, stomping their feet and clapping their hands.

"The bombing of the dikes is systematic and purposeful," Miss Fonda told the protestors gathered outside the front of the hall just beyond the shrubbery-covered fence with the barbed wire on top.

"One day-history will prove that he did it on purpose," she proclaimed.

She had been introduced as "Sister Jane Fonda" to the women protestors sitting in the platter of fresh sprinkles beyond the fence.

400,000 Prostitutes
When she said that South Vietnam now had 400,000 prostitutes, a New Mexico delegate inside the fence suggested it had one more when she was there.

"We must do anything and everything we can to end the war," Miss Fonda declared. "Voting is only one way . . .

and Miami is only the beginning."

The Miami Beach police, standing in a straight line inside the fence, their clubs held loosely in their hands, listened quietly, ignoring the occasional hoots directed at them from outside.

How different from Chicago 1968 that was.

Taught Tolerance
Behind the line, calm, relaxed, smiling and winking at passersby, standing at a command phone, stood the massive figure of Rocky Pomerance, the genial Miami Beach police chief who taught his men tolerance . . . a quality which did not distinguish the police in Chicago four years ago.

As Miss Fonda concluded, he puffed on a pipe.

"We will not stand for murder any longer," she insisted. "What will we tell our children years from now?"

The final woman speaker urged the protestors to help free all political prisoners. "Angela Davis is a political prisoner . . . every polar bear in a cage is a political prisoner," she declared.

Free Polar Bears
"Jesus Christ, she wants to free the polar bears," one cop muttered.

"Every kid in school . . . every housewife is a political prisoner," she insisted. "Every policeman standing in the rain," he growled.

Inside the hall, the jubilant young Republicans clapped in unison as the band played "Shall We Dance?"

City Council Approves Zoning For Manufacturing Plant

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday gave the go-ahead to Addressograph-Multigraph Corp.'s proposal to build a multi-million dollar manufacturing plant at Lincoln Air Park West.

The company requested a change of zone from AA Rural and Public Use to M Restricted Industry on a 227-acre tract, located a half mile north of the Municipal Airport, between Fletcher and U.S. 34.

Rules were suspended to permit the council to take immediate action on the request, with unanimous approval being given to the project. Monday's action followed last Wednesday's approval by the City-County Planning Commission, in which that group also suspended its rules to take action on the zoning change.

Two Objections
Both council members Helen Boosalis and Steve Cook objected to taking immediate action on the request Monday — instead of waiting until the item came up for third reading next week — since the developers had not requested the suspension of the rules.

Both the council's and planning commission's action came over the recommended denial of Urban Director Doug Brogren, who cited urban sprawl and the availability of industrial land in the UP industrial tract and in Havelock for suitable development.

Attorney Dick Spangler told the council that the 200,000-square-foot, one-story plant would employ 250 people by the fall of 1973, with 750 employed by 1976.

Work To Start Soon
Construction is scheduled to get underway in the near future, with completion by June, Spangler said.

He pointed out that the firm plans to build its own waste disposal system, terming the plant's total output as "a very clean operation," with no smokestacks and a dust collection system.

In addition, he said the company plans to build a 70-foot water tower on the western section of the site to handle the firm's own water supply system.

Okay With FAA
Both the heights of the plant and water tower comply with Federal Aeronautics Aviation requirements. Brogren had noted that the tract lies within the approach pattern of the airport's short, north-south runway.

Asked by Mrs. Boosalis why the airport site was chosen, Spangler replied that 16 other sites were examined before settling on the airport location. He also cited the accessibility of rail and highway transportation as another factor.

Also voicing support for the project was A. James Ebel, representing the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, who said the manufacturing plant would provide needed jobs for Lincolnites, plus halting the exodus of young people to jobs in other cities.

Worldwide Operation
Addressograph-Multigraph Corp., based in Cleveland, is a worldwide producer of graphics and data communications systems, supplies and services, with sales exceeding $400 million and employing 22,000 people.

The new Lincoln plant will be a division of the multigraphics department, which handles the corporation's copier and duplicator business.

Hanoi News Says B52 Is Downed

Tokyo (AP) — Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency claimed North Vietnamese gunners shot down a B52 bomber Monday in the Vinh Linh area just north of the demilitarized zone.

North Vietnam has made such claims before, but the U.S. Command in Saigon never has confirmed the loss of one of these big Stratofortresses to enemy action.

The broadcast claimed a U.S. A7 plane was shot down on an airplane with 16 persons over North Vietnam on Sunday.

Ahmed Lawzi, will concentrate on plans to liberate the Israeli-occupied West Bank and development and economic projects.

A shakeup had been rumored for months. Lawzi formed a government last November after the assassination in Cairo of Premier Wasfi Tel by Palestinians but political observers at the time said it would be only a caretaker government.

Political observers said the new appointments will strengthen Hussein's hand in foreign affairs and efforts to get the nation's economy in shape.

Salah Abu Eid, the monarch's special adviser, replaced Abdula Sala as foreign affairs minister.

Another close aide to the king, Ahmed Tarawna, relinquished his post as chief of the royal court, to become interior minister.

New ministers were named for premiership affairs, agriculture, public health, finance and transport.

In a decree to Lawzi charging him with forming a new government, the king stressed the unity of the West Bank, occupied by Israel in the 1967 war, and the East Bank. He called upon the cabinet to work toward once more joining the two regions.

The Palestinian cause, the king said, "is not a matter of politics to us, but a matter of life or death, existence or non-existence."

He said Arab opposition to his plans "weakened our joint cause" and called upon "brotherly governments" too "brotherly governments" to

CONCLAVE IS OPENED

... GOP Prepares To Nominate Nixon

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — The Republican National Convention tuned up Monday night for the ritual renomination of President Nixon, praising in speech and ceremony its man in the White House.

Described by Sen. Robert J. Dole, the party chairman, as "the on-time convention," it was a model of decorum and careful staging.

Nixon, the object of it all, paid a call on Mamie Eisenhower, widow of the late president, in Gettysburg, Pa.

In a filmed message to the convention, Mrs. Eisenhower urged Nixon's re-election.

There were two opening-day convention sessions, formalities in the afternoon, keynote speechmaking at night — on prime evening television time.

There were films boasting of the Nixon record as President, and of his wife's performance as First Lady.

Away from the gigantic platform that was the Republican stage, efforts to settle their one item of dispute — the apportionment of 1976 convention delegates — were continuing.

And, on another rules issue, Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts said 15 other GOP governors had enlisted in his effort at party reform, proposing that future convention delegations reflect the total makeup of the party.

Sargent seeks increased representation for the young, for Negroes and other minorities. Without such reforms, he said, the Republican future "is not very bright."

Dole told the initial convention session that Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, would "lead us in the wrong direction" if he got the chance to lead the nation.

"All of us here are 1,000% sure that President Nixon will be re-elected by one of the greatest land-slides in American political history," said Sen. Edward J. Gurney of Florida.

The formalities went off without a hitch. Gov. Ronald Reagan of California was elected temporary chairman of the convention. But Dole took the opportunity of the moment to announce that he will run for re-election in Kansas in 1974.

Periodically, Dole banged the gavel, asked delegates to clear the aisles and take their seats. But that seemed only a formality, too. By contrast with the sessions the Democrats held in the same hall six weeks ago, the floor was a model of parliamentary order.

About 1,000 demonstrators shouted antiwar slogans outside the convention hall as the sessions began, but there was no effort to impede delegates going to or from the auditorium.

With the 1972 ticket settled, and Nixon heavily favored in the public opinion polls, the only real tremor of controversy dealt with the makeup of the 1976 Republican National Convention.

Party leaders worked to settle by compromise that issue, which is in fact the opening skirmish in a contest between conservative and liberal-to-moderate Republicans for strength next time.

But initial peace-making efforts, led by Dole, failed. And the possibility of a contest on the convention floor remained.

Carefully staged and timed, the 1972 convention is designed to display to the voters a calm and solid send off for Nixon's campaign against McGovern.

With the First Family, except for the President, looking on, Dole said, "We meet to show the nation and the world how Republicans go about the important business of politics."

The Republican Platform appeared headed for easy adoption Tuesday.

There was a suggestion from Sen. Charles Mc Mathias Jr. of Maryland, that the party write a stronger platform pledge to end the draft by July 1973.

On another platform plank, Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts declared his opposition to language irrevocably opposing and the busing of school children for purposes of racial balance.

"We never will have true, integrated quality education until we stop playing politics" with the busing issue, said Brooke, the Senate's only Negro member, and the lead off man in a three-part convention keynoted address.

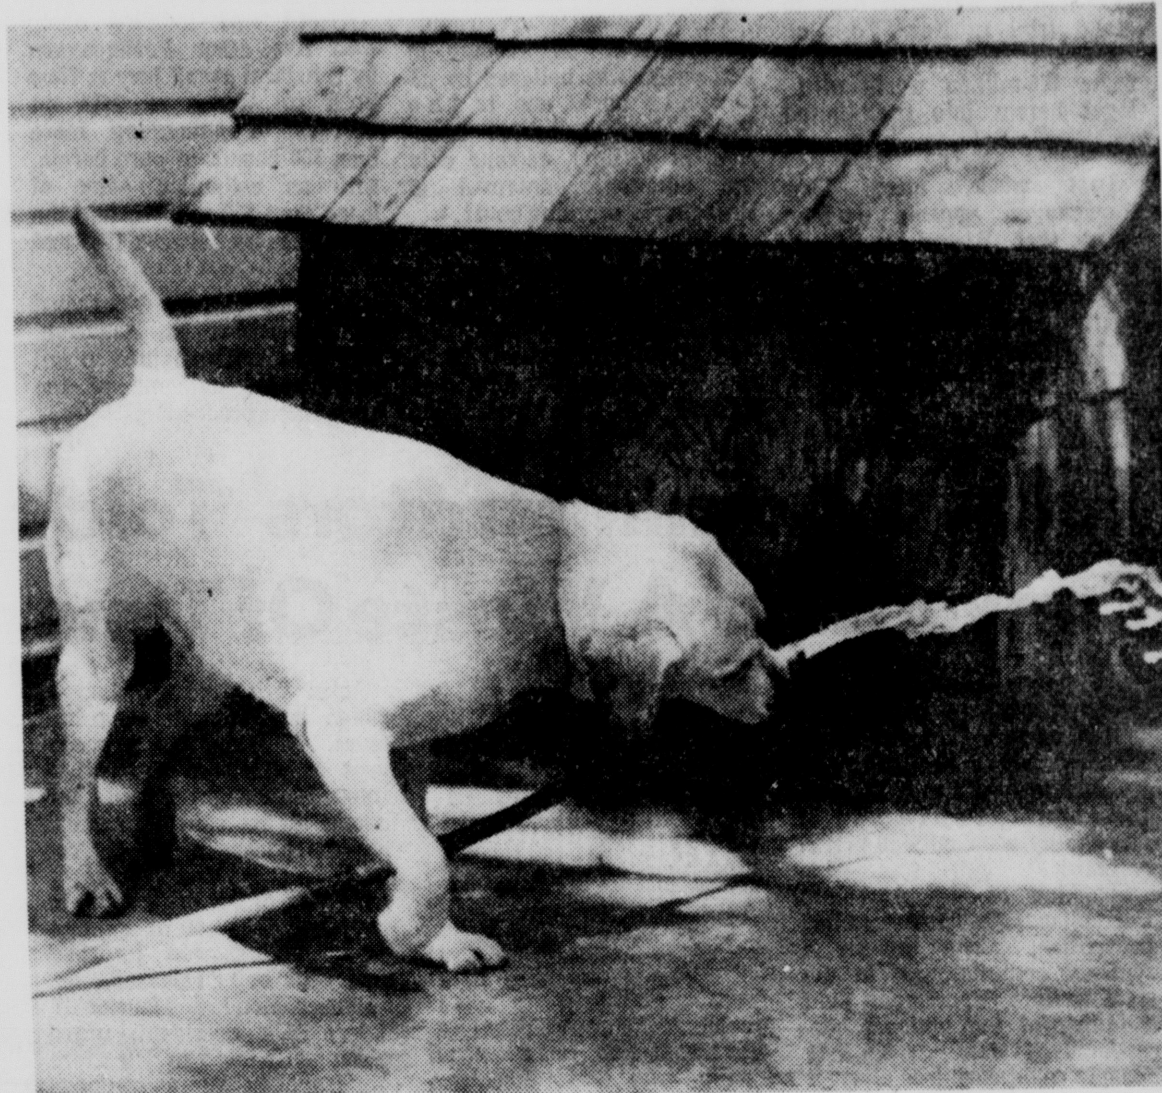

Brooke told a news conference he has his differences with Nixon, but nonetheless accepts "the challenge of being here to renominate and re-elect the President."

Sen. Peter Dominick of Colorado told the convention that Republicans can win control of the Senate in 1972. "We need just five seats," he said.

Dominick said Republicans are running ahead, and Democrats "are running away" from the McGovern ticket.

The initial session concluded with a tribute to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, and a filmed message from Mrs. Eisenhower urging Nixon's re-election.

"If ever Ike had a disciple, certainly it was Mr. Nixon," Mrs. Eisenhower said.

Proxmire Says Nixon Wants National Sales Tax Enacted

Washington (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Monday President Nixon will propose what amounts to a national sales tax if re-elected.

He predicted in a statement issued from his office that Nixon will call the sales tax by another name — value added tax.

A value added tax (VAT) imposes a levy at each successive stage of production and distribution of a product. The result is that a series of taxes have been placed on the product, adding to its cost, at the final retail level.

The administration, Proxmire said, floated trial balloons early this year for such a tax system but discovered the issue was "too hot to handle" in an election year.

"But that proposal is sitting at the treasury," Proxmire said. "The I's have been dotted and T's have been crossed. It is positioned to be sent up to Congress when the President has the election behind him."

The senator said a tax increase was "inevitable" if Nixon was re-elected and carried out the expansion programs he has requested in defense, space and foreign military aid spending.

"The relatively small increase in the budget this year for the B1 bomber, the Trident submarine, the new attack carrier, the space shuttle and the airborne warning and control system defense against manned bombers will ultimately cost from $80 billion to $100 billion," he said.

"This is the year of the credit card down payment on future mammoth spending."

Because of this, Proxmire argued, "the administration will raise taxes through a national sales tax . . ."

"On Jan. 20, 1973, if President Nixon is re-elected, VAT will be dusted off and sent up to Congress for approval."

Sioux County Plans Appeal In Tax Action

State Tax Commissioner Bill Peters said Monday that he has been verbally informed by the Sioux County attorney that the county plans to appeal a recent Board of Equalization decision hiking that county's property valuation by 25%.

But he added the board stands "a reasonably good" chance of having its Aug. 15 decision stand.

The Sioux County hike was made by the board after they learned that the county's board of commissioners rolled back tax values set by an appraisal firm by 20%. The county cited adverse crop conditions as its reason.

Gov. J. James Exon said at the time that Sioux County's action "seems to me a case where the county flagrantly rolled back valuations." This, he said, would be unfair to other counties.

Otherwise, the board accepted the other 92 counties' 1972 valuations without any attempts at equalization. That policy of generally accepting valuations as submitted began in 1969 when a number of board decisions were overturned in court.

Sioux County's appeal will go directly to the Nebraska Supreme Court under special procedures set under law and could be argued during the fall term of the court.

News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

Miami Beach — The Republican National Convention got off to a smooth start Monday, paying nostalgic tribute to the party's past heroes and laying claim to the issues of peace and prosperity. Speakers also stepped up attacks on Sen. George McGovern, President Nixon's Democratic challenger, whom they depicted as a would-be wrecker of Vietnam negotiations and an extremist on almost every subject. (More on Page 1)

Nixon Supporters Rally

Miami Beach — Two miles from Flamingo Park, where protesters were massing, some 3,000 young men and women marshaled their energies to help bring about the re-election of President Nixon. Calling themselves Young Voters for the President, they seem confident of growing support among first-time voters.

Breakthrough Talk Squashed

Washington — The Nixon administration sought to squash talk of an imminent breakthrough toward peace in Vietnam. Some officials appeared embarrassed by the publicity given to Secretary of State William P. Rogers's weekend remark concerning a possible settlement around election time. The White House said Rogers had made no "flat prediction" but had merely given "a general assessment based on his personal appraisal of the situation."

Decision Came Gradually

Paris — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt reports that his decision to ask for the removal of Soviet forces from his country built up gradually since early 1971 when a meeting with Soviet leaders disclosed diverging attitudes toward the Arab-Israeli conflict. In a candid interview with a French journalist, Sadat said that the Soviet-American summit in Moscow this year was the last straw for him.

McGovern Tours Pennsylvania

Wilkes-Barre, Pa. — Sen. George

McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate, toured Pennsylvania's flood-stricken Wyoming Valley, seeking to demonstrate that a McGovern administration would be more compassionate than the present one. Some flood victims angrily charged that the federal government has done too little to help them.

Space Satellite Launched

New York — A 4,900-pound space satellite named after Copernicus was launched from Cape Kennedy to observe interstellar gases, young hot stars, x-ray stars and other phenomena undreamt of by the father of modern astronomy. Carrying the largest telescope ever deployed beyond the Earth's atmosphere, the vehicle is the most complex and costliest scientific satellite lofted by the United States.

Plumbing Inspectors Arrested

New York — City Investigation Commissioner Robert K. Rusk announces the arrest of three more plumbing inspectors on bribery charges. According to Rusk, they were turned in by a contractor who heeded the commissioner's recent plea for cooperation from the construction industry.

Delay Is Encountered In Extraditing Ricord

©The New York Times

Washington — A State Department official said Monday that a possible unexpected delay had been encountered in obtaining the extradition from Paraguay of August Joseph Ricord, the alleged head of an international narcotics ring, to stand trial in New York on federal charges of importing some $60-million worth of illegal heroin into the United States over six years.

Last week, after the Paraguayan appeals court ruled that Ricord could be legally extradited here under the terms of a 1913 extradition treaty with Paraguay, the State Department predicted his arrival within "a matter of days."

The court's decision, which followed by a week a personal visit by a high-ranking State Department official to the Paraguayan President, Gen. Alfredo Stroessner, was greeted here as a victory for the United States in its 16-month fight to bring Ricord to trial.

The appeals court ruling, handed down on Monday of last week, was believed by officials here, and in the Paraguayan capital of Asuncion, to be final, needing only the automatic approval of Paraguay's supreme court.

But an official in the State Department said Monday that Ricord's defense attorney had filed appeals with both the Paraguayan Supreme Court and a lower court asking that Ricord be tried under Paraguayan law before the extradition appeal be granted.

The official said he was still hopeful that the two courts involved would rule against such a trial, but that there was no assurance of how soon they might act.

Ricord was indicted along with five other Paraguayans by a federal grand jury in New York in March of 1971 on charges of smuggling more than 500 pounds of pure heroin, with an estimated value of more than $60 million, into the United States between 1965 and 1971.

A month later he was seized by authorities in Asuncion, where he has remained in jail pending the outcome of the extradition proceedings.

Government Declares Santiago Emergency Zone

Santiago, Chile (UPI) — The government declared Santiago an emergency zone Monday night and ordered the military to assume police powers after a 24-hour protest strike by thousands of retail establishments exploded into violence.

The government named Gen. Hector Bravo, commander of the Santiago military district, as head of the emergency zone. Bravo was empowered to restrict public meetings and impose a curfew, if necessary.

Protesters, angered by the death of a supermarket owner, earlier attacked federal inspectors who forced open the doors of about 20 stores in Santiago's main shopping area, closed to protest against the death. Police fired dozens of tear gas bombs and a converted fire truck sprayed the demonstrators with water.

Pro-government hard-hat construction workers hurled bricks and building materials at the demonstrators from a nearby skyscraper scaffolding.

Thousands of retail businesses took part in the strike called to protest the death of a market owner who died as the government took over his store.

The small business federation said 95% of the 125,000 retail shops in Chile participated in the demonstration.

2 Coal Miners Killed

Widnes, England (UPI) — An explosion in the Cronon colliery killed two coal miners Monday. A coal board spokesman said investigators were checking the possibility an electrical failure caused the blast.

were the only stores open in downtown Santiago.

The federation and three other business organizations called the walkout to protest the death of Manuel Aguilar last week in the southern city by the government.

Federal officials said Aguilar died of a heart attack.

But business organizations charged Aguilar was struck by police during the seizure, provoking the heart attack.

The government Sunday night declared Magallanes Province, whose capital is Punta Arenas, a disaster zone and placed the army in charge of police.

Stores in that province have been closed since Friday in protest of Aguilar's death.

The government has for months, been threatening to crack down on retailers who fail to hold the line on essential food prices and has been accused by some dealers of cutting off their supplies.

Plane Crashes Near Lake Erie

Port Clinton, Ohio (UPI) — An airplane with 16 persons aboard, headed for the nearby Lake Erie resort island of Put-In-Bay, crashed shortly after take-off from Port Clinton Municipal Airport Monday.

None of the 16 persons was killed and not all were believed injured. However, all were taken to nearby McGruder Hospital for observation and treatment, if needed.

The plane, an old Ford trimotor, owned by Island Airlines, crashed into a vacant field at the end of the runway. Cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

Prison Administrators Told Convention A Waste Of Time

Pittsburgh (UPI) — A Pennsylvania welfare official told prison administrators Monday that their convention was "a waste of time" because the real problems of criminality were outside prison walls.

Speaking at the American Correctional Association (ACA) convention, Kiernan Stenson, a regional commissioner in the state welfare department, said a failing of the nation's correctional system was that "people could care less about a person put away for five years."

"We forget that most of them come back to society," Stenson said, "a society that didn't want them in the first place and won't accept them in the second place."

"Conventions like this are a waste of time. You should be spending your time out in society where the real problems are."

"Corrections is part of a total program of dealing with society," which is the only place we can really solve the problem," Stenson said.

He said a basic penal dilemma was that "there are too many people in jail who don't belong there."

"They are there because they are not part of society but products of it."

Judge Albert Acker, of Mercer County (Pa.) Common Pleas Court, agreed with Stenson that "basically the public doesn't give a damn."

Acker said, however, rehabilitation of criminals was still a concern of the prisons.

"Discipline is part of treatment," he said. "Without discipline there can in fact be no rehabilitation."

Acker criticized the laxness which he observed on prison tours. "I found on a recent visit to Western Penitentiary (near Pittsburgh) I could buy heroin at the rate of one bag for 32 packages of cigarettes."

He said of 300 drug users he sentenced to Western Penitentiary, one showed improvement after being released.

Earlier Monday, Maurice H. Sigler, ACA president, urged prison officials to "restore confidence in our corrections system."

"Our critics may have some of the facts wrong, and some of their assumptions are certainly wrong," Sigler said, "but the thrust of what they are saying is correct. We all know that corrections have not kept up with the times."

He told some 2,500 delegates to the ACA's 102nd annual convention they must formulate "a system of accreditation" because "self-policing is essential to the professionalization of any field."

Smoke From Bombed Store Filled Operating Room During Surgery

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — Smoke from a bombed paint store poured into a hospital operating room Monday while surgery was under way. The operation continued and the patient later was described as all right.

The paint store on Lisburn Road was destroyed by fire that resulted from the bomb left by two youths. No one was reported hurt.

A spokesman at Belfast's Good Samaritan Hospital said the guerrillas gave a warning of the bombing, but doctors found it impossible to interrupt the surgery.

Another bomb devastated a post office in the dock area of Belfast. Police received a warning of this one, too, and the area was cleared before the explosion.

At the same time police stepped up their hunt for the "Butchers of Belfast," terrorist assassination squads who torture and mutilate their victims before slaying them.

Police installed a confidential telephone service to obtain information on assassination squads.

The telephone service came five days after the offer of 90,000 pounds reward—$122,500—for information leading to the conviction of the killers, believed to be members of Roman Catholic and Protestant revenge groups settling old scores which have emerged in three years of sectarian strife in Northern Ireland.

Approximately 80 persons have died in these apparently motiveless murders in the past five months. Many of the victims appeared to be innocent victims who happened to be in the wrong place at the wrong time.

The deaths of four civilians and two soldiers over the weekend brought Northern Ireland's death toll in three years to 518.

Car Crash Injures Premier Of Libya, Kills Minister

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — The premier of Libya, Maj. Abdul Salem Jalloud, was injured Monday in a car wreck that killed another member of the Libyan Revolutionary Command, the Libyan news agency reported.

Jalloud was taken to a hospital for treatment of bruises on the head, face and neck, the agency said. His condition was described as good.

Capit. Mohammed Mokarief, the other passenger in the police car that turned over just after midnight, died of a deep wound in the back of the head, the agency said. Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

Jalloud, who became prime minister last month and who is considered Libya's No. 2 leader after Col. Muammar Kadafi, was on his way to Tripoli with Mokarief, the Libyan agency said.

Three miles east of Al Khams village, a tire went flat and the car veered off the asphalt, stopping in a deep ditch 120 feet away, it said.

Mokarief was one of the young army officers who helped Kadafi overthrow the regime of King Idriss on Sept. 1, 1969. Later Mokarief became housing minister.

Nebraskans Carry Football, Song To GOP Convention

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Miami Beach — Omaha brought a football and the strains of "There Is No Place Like Nebraska" to the Republican National Convention Monday.

The football, provided by Omaha Councilman Warren Swigert, was attached to Nebraska's convention hall banner as a symbol of the Cornhuskers' number one status.

The tune was provided by the Ray Bloch Orchestra in tribute to Dick Herman of Omaha, who put together the arrangements for the GOP convention.

"It simply cannot be done. There's no way," Republican National Chairman Bob Dole told the opening session of the convention in describing Herman's task of arranging the big conclave.

"But here we are today ... And we have Dick Herman to thank for it."

Herman Honored

Dole, the senator from Kansas, presented Herman with a gold convention badge in appreciation for his efforts.

"The two highest honors (of the party) are spoken for," Dole noted in alluding to the GOP's presidential and vice presidential nominations.

But the gold badge is next, he declared.

"Dick Herman has earned this award," Dole said as the band belted a few choruses of "No Place."

Dressed in one of the blue sport coats which have become a Herman trademark, the Republican national committeeman from Nebraska accepted the award at the rostrum from which he will work this week.

American television viewers are going to find that "the best convention has been saved for last," Herman said.

Not An Easy Job

Arranging the gathering, "by way of San Diego," has not been the easiest job he ever undertook, Herman noted. But it has been "the most interesting and the most rewarding," he said.

Taking his medal, Herman returned to the back of the rostrum where he keeps the operation going with a waving hand, a pointing finger and a white telephone.

Nebraska delegates have a particularly good view of the proceedings, front and almost center between the delegations from Wyoming and Indiana.

That matches their ideal hotel location on the beach, next to the posh and impenetrable Doral Hotel, site of the President's re-election headquarters, and a few minutes' walk from the Fontainebleau, the headquarters hotel for the convention.

Nebraskans who took the time to leaf through the giant convention souvenir book also found a touch of home on page 223.

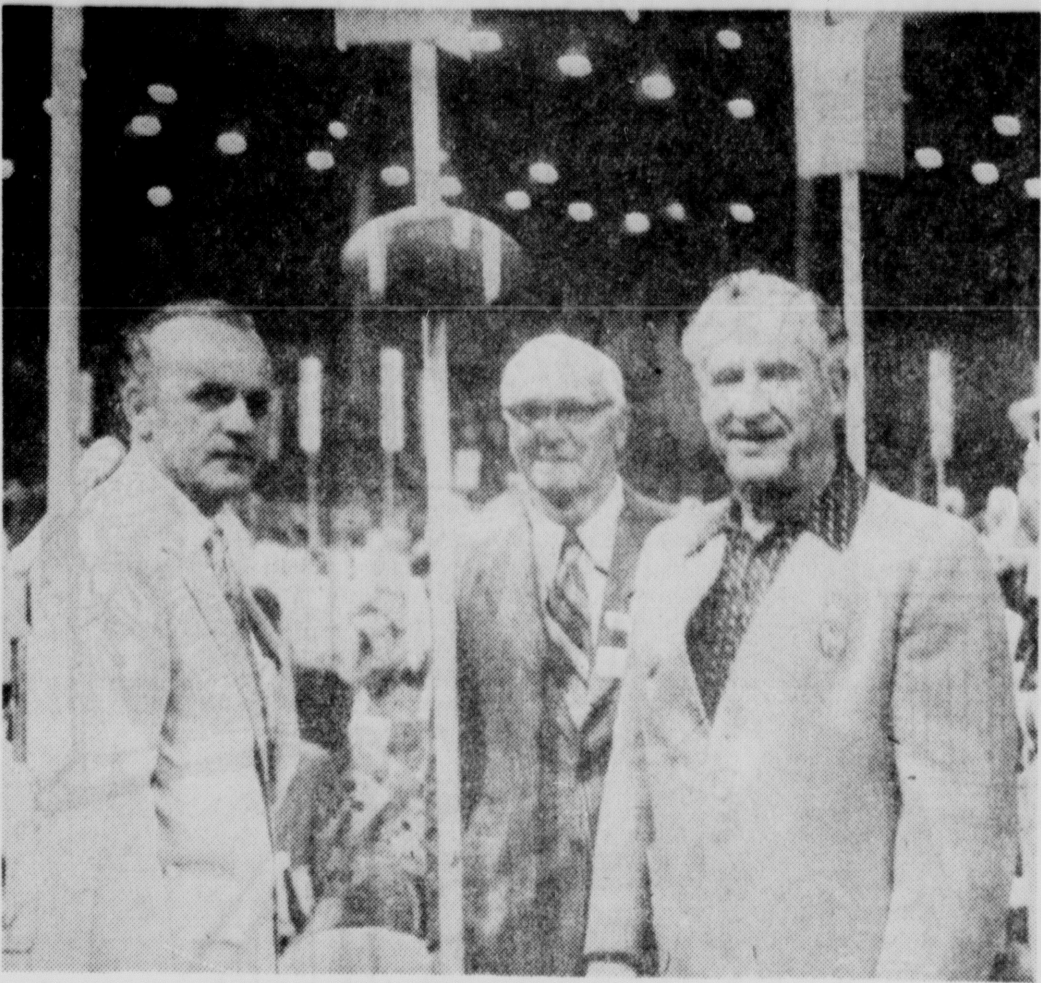

Beneath a full-page color photograph of Western Nebraska scenery was the following message:

"Drawing attention to our number one football team is too easy. So we won't do it."

"Instead, we point out that football is only one reason to say, 'There Is No Place Like Nebraska.'"

"For instance, highly productive labor and water resources make Nebraska an exciting place to locate a new business."

The ad was paid for by five Nebraska businesses, including Dick Herman's Omaha trucking firm.

Nixon Needs All 8 Years, Mamie Tells Republicans

Miami Beach, (UPI) — The Grand Old Party paid tribute Monday to its grand old man, the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose ailing widow urged Republicans in a filmed appearance to work for the re-election of President, Nixon.

"I'd sort of like to have you all come and sit here on the porch with me where Ike and I spent so many happy hours, and where we could sit and look at the green trees and the grass and Angus cattle still up here on the fields," said Mamie, 75, from her Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Saying she did not like to quote her late husband too often, Mrs. Eisenhower nonetheless recalled he often said to her, "Four years is not long enough for any president to try to put together what he wants for the good of this country or trying to carry out his campaign promises. He needs all of the eight years to do this."

"So let's all get behind Mr. Nixon and see that he is re-elected for that other four years," she urged.

Mrs. Eisenhower was introduced by Secretary of State William P. Rogers who served in Eisenhower's cabinet as attorney general.

Calling Eisenhower, "The most admired man in the world," Rogers said, "He brought a new standard of dignity and prestige to the office of President of the United States. In the end, Dwight Eisenhower reflected all that is best in America — and America became a better place because of Dwight Eisenhower."

The tribute marked the 20th anniversary of the 1952 GOP convention in Chicago, when the five-star general and World War II hero was first nominated for president.

"I suppose many of us have memories of that campaign," Rogers said. "One of mine is of the old Ike button. Everybody had a button that said, 'I like Ike.' Dwight Eisenhower showed up with one that said, 'I like Mamie.'"

Protests Orderly In Miami Beach

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Approximately 1,000 antiwar activists, led by three Vietnam veterans in wheel chairs, marched to a National Guard encampment Monday after shouting antiwar slogans outside the hall where Republican delegates were beginning their 1972 nominating convention.

When they reached the high school campus where 1,000 guardsmen were billeted, demonstrators led by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War shouted: "Come on out, brothers, we're just like you — join us, join us!"

Despite their numbers — the best estimates are that there are about 4,000 protesters in Miami Beach — there has been no disorder of any consequence at any demonstration at the hall or park.

Prior to the GOP evening session, Miami Women's Coalition activists hauled "symbols of oppression" — skillets, baby bottles and girdles — from the Flamingo Park campsite and persuaded a few matronly women to join in the procession to Convention Hall.

GOP delegates entered and left the hall unimpeded by demonstrators during the first session of the convention.

One brief scuffle resulted when five veterans clambered to the roof of the high school and approximately 20 guardsmen with nightsticks chased them off. They had to tussle with one of the five as veterans jeered from below.

Police said seven demonstrators were arrested on charges of nonforcible entry in connection with the incident.

Another scuffle, just as quickly put down, resulted when the Veterans confronted a group of approximately 30 counterdemonstrators led by the Rev. Carl McIntyre, a conservative radio preacher. A handful of vets snatched three signs from the McIntyre group and tore them up.

A third flareup, a brief fistfight, resulted in the park from an argument, between Yippie leader Abbie Hoffman and a member of the Zippies, a breakaway faction of the Youth International Party.

When demonstrators marched by the hall, four busloads of policemen held in reserve at the site replied to their chants by beating nightsticks in cadence on the floors of the vehicles.

A panel of senior citizens and young people convened a mock court near Convention Hall to "investigate" the Nixon administration. About 150 people attended and heard a parade of protestors, including actress Jane Fonda, criticize the government for "genocide" in Vietnam.

Stromer Says Youth May Surprise Demos

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Miami Beach — Democrats may be surprised to see how young Americans vote after they have helped register them, the president of Nebraska's Young Republicans believes.

"I think we're going to do amazingly well with the young voter," Gerald Stromer of Kearney said Monday as the Republican National Convention swept off the launching pad with an accent on youth.

"Remember that among the 25 million new young voters, only about five million of them are in college," Stromer noted.

It is on the campus that "you seem to find the most support for the Democratic ticket," the 29-year-old state senator said.

The other 20 million potential young voters are workers, servicemen or students in trade and technical schools, Stromer said. Many of them are young married couples.

"Our canvassing indicates that most of them are going to support the President," Stromer pointed out. "And I think we'll pretty well split the campus vote too."

GOP Prospects

Stromer, dripping from a dip in the ocean, paused in the Montmartre Hotel lobby to discuss GOP prospects for capturing the large new young vote.

President Nixon will have special appeal to young voters as a result of his efforts to terminate the military draft system, his ambitions of "letting people touch their government" and "the fact that he does what he says," Stromer believes.

"He said he would get out of Vietnam in an honorable way without selling out, and that's what he's doing," Stromer said.

"And he is trying to cut through the bureaucratic levels to bring government as close to the public as possible. People are frustrated at not being able to get directly to their government. They want to touch it."

One indication of young voter interest, Stromer said, is the fact that 27 Young Republican members from Nebraska paid their own way to come to Miami Beach this week to help the President.

The farm outlook is important. Complete coverage of the latest of importance to agriculture appears on the "Sunday Journal and Star" farm page.

Other young Nebraskans are also here providing volunteer assistance, he noted. "I think that speaks for itself," he said.

"When we get back to Nebraska, they'll all be ready for greater grass roots involvement in politics."

Voter Sign-Up Effort

Nebraska Young Republicans will concentrate their efforts on selective voter registration and local organizational efforts before November.

With the nomination of President Nixon and Vice President Angew wrapped up for 1972, the tendency to look ahead to 1976 is apparent in Miami Beach this week.

"It's too early to say," Stromer cautions, but he would guess now that the presidential choice four years from today will revolve about Agnew, Sen. William Brock of Tennessee, Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis and Sen. James Buckley of New York.

The rising strength of the young voters may rule out some of the older hands, Stromer said.

"We'll be looking beyond the Reagans, the Goldwaters, the Rockefeller and the Scrantons," he said. "Young people are coming along in the future."

Omaha (AP) — A 27-year-old mental patient reported missing from the Lincoln Regional Center was found shot to death in an Omaha motel room Sunday, police said.

The body of Henry Billings McEwen was discovered by motel personnel, police said.

He suffered a bullet wound in the head, believed to have been self-inflicted, officers reported.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

For a change, the world might look at the Middle East today with more hope than apprehension. As everyone is aware, the Soviet Union has been ousted from the heavy military role it had occupied in Egypt and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has announced a world crusade for improved Arab relations.

Sadat has singled out the U.S. as one nation with which his leading Arab nation will seek a better understanding. The situation, however, is not the drastic reversal of things that it might appear to be.

One has to doubt seriously that the Russian pullout from Egypt is all there is to the matter. On the other side, you can assume that the Russian difference with Sadat seems, at least in part, from agreements reached between the U.S. and Russia.

A prominent Egyptian journalist has written that the trouble between Egypt and Russia stems from an agreement between the Soviet Union and the U.S. to isolate the Middle East conflict by a mutual cooling of the fires of conflict there. Those fires of conflict would be cooled, under this reasoning, by both the U.S. and Soviet curtailment of help to their respective Israeli and Arab allies.

Thus, it can be expected that the Soviet Union took its lumps in Cairo on the assumption that this nation would be taking its lumps in Tel Aviv as conditions in the Middle East progressed.

Therefore, it might be expected in the future that there would be some deterioration in the relations that now exist between the U.S. and Israel. This could hardly be avoided if the U.S. and Russia have agreed upon a so-called "isolation" of that trouble spot of the world.

Thus, the hope that might exist is not for any one-sided loss by the Arabs or Russia but rather, for a mutual downgrading of tensions. There would be no guarantee of peace under such an arrangement, however, but it could provide the basis for such peace at some time in the future.

Left to their own devices, the warring Jewish and Arab factions might find themselves without a future. Without a superpower to back them up, neither group would seem to command much of a real state of dominance in their area.

Without the threat of conflict to feed upon, the state of Israel and the Arab nations might begin to look at the fundamental causes of their past problems. If war between the two can become the absolutely hopeless thing that it might without U.S. and Russian support, then the problems of peace might begin to occupy the thinking of more people.

These problems of peace remain as they have been for the years since Israel fought and won her independence back in the post-World War II days. At the very beginning is the problem of Arab recognition of the legitimacy of the state of Israel.

If the Arab nations want to develop new friends in the Western world, they will have to come around to the reality of the state of Israel and give up the foolish and costly dream that the Jews can be driven from their home. There is just no foundation in fact for any other kind of policy and no hope of a lasting peace in the area on any other basis.

Israel, for its part, will ultimately have to come to some agreements regarding Arab lands conquered in the six-day war of 1967. This will not be an easy matter to settle but relatively little of that land is actually needed by Israel for the sake of its national security.

Then, the future of the area will hinge heavily on the reactions of the U.S. and Russia if the tension in the Middle East does increase. If a showdown of interest there should develop, will the U.S. and Russia maintain the shaky neutrality that they have now agreed upon?

If they do and if it would work, there would be proof of a formula for peace that could serve the world well in many trouble spots. If responsibility rather than confrontation works in the Middle East, it would work elsewhere.

Thus, the situation in the Middle East is not necessarily a victory of any kind for the U.S. but it does hold promise of peace that would be a victory for all mankind. Conditions there will be watched with great interest in the months ahead.

Conditions Right For 'Year Of Flea'

New York — Throughout the country, nature-loving Americans are having a real slapdash summer...

You slap at the mosquitoes, and then dash indoors.

Unusually wet weather through spring and early summer, plus the reluctance of people to spray lethal insecticides that disturb the balance of nature, are the reasons for the giant mosquito onslaught.

But if you think the mosquitoes are fierce this year, wait a few more days and see (or at least feel) the horde of trouble which is waiting in the (or on the) wings.

Scientists are now predicting that this may be the "Year of the Flea." And are looking for hordes of these devastating little hitch-hikers to zoom in upon us.

David Handin, an award-winning science reporter, says that the traditional view is that fleas hop onto a host animal or person—they neither walk nor fly—and cling to position while they dine. Most frequently, they choose family pets to ride aboard; but they're not at all averse to tormenting humans.

They are more than an itchy nuisance. Fleas can carry tapeworms and an endemic form of typhus. They are more than an itchy nuisance. They also may carry pasteurized infection — the Black Death or bubonic plague that killed hundreds of thousands of Europeans over three centuries.

The reason a bumper crop of fleas is expected this summer is that last year we had a moist, warm Indian summer and a mild winter—"great for fleas," according to Dr. Grover Cloyd, director of veterinary medicine for the A. H. Robins Co. of Virginia, and one of the world's top authorities on the parasites.

Hendin recommends—to families who may be taking late summer vacations—that they be careful upon their return home. "During a family's absence, hungry fleas wait in the rug and around the house." When the family returns, each member will look immensely appetizing to a number of fleas.

Hendin suggests that if the family has a pet, "send the animal into the house first, for the fleas will be so hungry that they will jump on the nearest living thing." His theory is that it is better for your dog or cat to be flea-bitten than his masters. Animals look better with flea-collars than humans do.

In Arabic countries, unemployed menials used to be sent into every room of an unused house to attract the fleas before others entered. And in some of America's southern states, sheep have been used for the same purpose.

There are a number of treatments for flea-infested people and pets—dips and soaps, shampoos, powders and sprays. Most are messy, and don't last too long since, as a parasitologist named Ulrich Karkofen puts it, dogs and cats are "walking flea collectors." Kill their fleas one day, and they'll have a new menagerie by nightfall.

Hendin believes the best system is the plastic collar impregnated with a chemical called DDDP. "Flea collars work well on pets because the fleas must have moisture every day. They obtain this moisture by drinking from the animal's mouth, nose, or eyes, and they must get to these places via the neck, thus passing the lethal collar en route."

But be careful. An occasional dog or cat may be allergic either to the plastic or the DDDP. In that case, alternate methods must be tried.

Fair Reporting

Lincoln, Neb.
The members of the Cornhusker Food Retailers Association would like to express our thanks and appreciation to Mr. Dominick Costello, farm editor, for his recognition of both the farmer and retailer in the great fight against inflation. His article of August 14 was most refreshing in these times of constant harassment at the retail level.

It seems we still have a friend in the agricultural industry and hope we can continue to earn his respect in the future.

Isn't it rather amazing that the farmer-producer segment of society is able to see that the food retailer has been doing his share by absorbing part of the increased cost of food, while at the same time the consumer sees nothing but the increase and feels the retailer is the only one responsible for that increase? If only that consumer could understand what the retailer has to pay for out of the increase he must have.

Out thanks to Mr. Costello and his most fair job of reporting.

Nixon has out-maneuvered and out-stayed them all. It is 20 years since he accepted the vice presidential nomination of his party, and now, on the verge of his 60th birthday, he will accept its presidential nomination for the third time, looking more fit and seeming more serene and happy than ever before.

Serenity and happiness have never been his most intimate companions. Even now, at the pinnacle of his power, something holds him back from that plain-speaking and personal trust that bind a good political partnership together. But at least in Miami Beach, and at last after all these years, he will finally get not only the nomination but the affection of his party.

This is perhaps the most interesting aspect of this particular convention. The ideological gap between Nixon and most of the Republican delegates here is probably greater today than it was in 1952 when he was picked as vice president because he was a symbol of the growing power of youth, California, and anti-communism.

He has obviously changed more on both foreign and domestic policy than the Republicans here on the floor. Only five per cent of the GOP delegates are willing to tell the pollsters that they are now "liberal," but almost all of them accept — or prefer not to think about — Nixon's spectacular switch to wage and price controls, record peace-time budget deficits, guaranteed annual wages for the poor at home, and accommodations with the communists abroad.

Nevertheless, politics is the art of seizing and holding political power, and Nixon is very good at it. The conservative Republicans may not like to see him succeed by adopting policies they fought against in the 1940's and '50's, and which he used to win the vice presidency 20 years ago, but nobody admires success more than the Republican conservatives.

Obviously, Richard Nixon has achieved political success. He has survived while all the others who were around when he first came to Washington as a minor official in Roosevelt's Office of Price Administration have died, or retired, or dropped out of the race.

Even Harry Truman out there in Independence and that terribly oppressive machine in the sky are just two examples.

In reference to the statement of Dale Williamson, executive secretary of the Natural Resources Commission (Star, Aug. 11), Mr. Williamson implies that Erwin Matulka, a spokesman anti-NRD, is not speaking current with the suit pending before the U.S. District Court challenging the constitutionality of the NRDs.

Far from it—Matulka is on top of the matter and very much informed and concerned, and it is of great importance that the fact that there are delays should be made known to the people because of the seriousness of the situation.

It would appear that stumbling blocks are being "conveniently" arranged to stop this man's attempts to give the people the true information about the new NRDs.

Nixon Political Success, With Party's Affection; Presidential Problems, However, Remain Static

Lyndon Johnson, more worried about his health down there in Texas than is generally realized, not to mention Nixon's contemporaries in the House and Senate in the 1940's and early '50's, respect his endurance and political skill, so it is no wonder that delegates here are more enthusiastic about him than at any time since he came into national politics.

By capturing the center of the American political struggle, which the Democrats held for so long and McGovern gave up in a fit of absent-mindedness, Nixon has proved he was an astute and maybe even a great politician. The question now is whether he will be a great president.

When he accepted the presidential nomination here four years ago, he said that America needed leaders to "match the greatness of her people." The "great question," he said then, was "whether we shall continue for four more years the policies of the last five years." Then he defined his answer to the question:

"When," he said, "the strongest nation in the world can be tied down for four years by a war with no end in sight;

"When the richest nation in the world can't manage its own economy;

"When the nation with the greatest tradition of the rule of MIAMI BEACH — The opening act of the best-managed play in American politics in many seasons opened yesterday.

Everything leading up to the opening matinee predicted clearly that the Dullsville convention would proceed without hitch. And it's meant to be that way.

George Cook, the Lincoln insurance executive, clued in the Nebraska delegation at its Sunday caucus at the Fontainebleau, that jaded, overstaffed epitome of decadent hospitality, about what is expected of loyal Republican delegates at the coronation.

Nebraska delegates should be open to interview by the media at all possible times, Nixon's campaign major domo in the Cornhusker state said. "But if you can't say anything nice, don't say anything."

Nobody has said anything that wasn't nice — at least they haven't said it very loud — since I've been here.

It is a glorious occasion for a party supremely confident of a massive victory in November.

The opposition is treated with a loving contempt, as if George was a nice little boy who should know better. Of course, the gloves will come off as the convention speakers warm up.

Aside from the jabs at McGovern, the Republicans are most interested in the shape of things to come, like in about four years.

The conservative majority here is likely to keep the rules conservative. The 1976 GOP national convention might be a bit closer to "one man, one vote" delegate apportionment. There may be a successful effort to include a greater percentage of youth, minorities and women. But those who want to see the GOP operate in basically the same pattern — and some point proudly to the 30% of the delegates who are women and the 18% who are youths this time — are in command, and everything is so pleasant and everyone so optimistic, there is no real call for change.

If Nebraskans take part in any hassling, it will be to fight for a right-to-work plank in the platform and on behalf of the small states in the delegate apportionment struggle.

Excitement in Miami Beach? Up to the opening gavel, there has been none.

The delegates have been content to go swimming, fishing, yachting, nightclubbing and a lot of loafing, and politics hasn't been that much of a part of the conversation. There are no real battles to fight.

A special exception should be taken for those on the convention committees, who have put in Democrat-type hours for the past week. And Nebraska's Dick Herman, the convention arrangements manager, who has labored here for 60 days.

This is the off-season for Miami Beach. The temperature has bounced around in the 80s, but the humidity has dampened the spark in anyone with enough fortitude to go outside. It makes Lincoln's weather last week feel like a chill November morn by comparison. However, the pleasure palaces here on the

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I hope you will not wait too long to answer this. Both of my parents are diabetics. I intend to get a checkup when I get my vacation this summer. I think I am also diabetic. What damage would be caused if I continue eating anything I want, because I am not sure yet if I am a diabetic? Would it injure my eyes? Would it cause heart trouble? I do drink a lot of water and my mouth is dry most of the time. Is this one of the symptoms?—D.B.

You want me to answer in a hurry—so you can keep on procrastinating? I don't think I follow your logic.

However, with your history and your symptoms, you ought to cut out sweets (candy, cake, all other sugary foods) at once.

(Of course you ought to get your checkup right away, too. Why wait for your vacation? One office visit to your doctor will probably give you a clear enough answer.)

When both parents are diabetic, your chances of being diabetic are about as high as they can get. And thirst is one of the early symptoms.

Diabetes (except in childhood) is a slow but steadily damaging disease. The longer you wait before starting treatment to control it, the greater the damage will be to your system in the long-run.

If you continue to hide from the truth, you won't lose your eyesight overnight, nor develop heart trouble tomorrow — but you may have to pay for that delay in the long-run. Eye and heart conditions occur with diabetes, and the longer the case remains uncontrolled, the worse the damage will be. In fact, circulation is impaired generally, so damage continues silently but inexorably throughout the body.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am being treated for high blood pressure, but have been planning a trip which would be by air, and wonder if I should cancel it.—Mrs. L.R.

Your blood pressure would not be a reason for avoiding travel in commercial planes. The cabins are pressurized, so you are as comfortable as you would be on the ground.

If you are nervous about flying—and nervous tension can affect your blood pressure — your doctor could give you a mild tranquilizer or sedative before the flight to keep you calm.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read much about the danger of profuse bleeding after taking aspirin. No article or doctor has said how much aspirin can be critical. Is there any reading material or medical center you can refer me to for such information? I am particularly interested in the relationship of aspirin to stress ulcers.—M.G.

"Profuse" bleeding? It is true that aspirin, by irritating the stomach lining, can cause bleeding.

The amount varies according to the way an individual happens to react, and that's why nobody can say how much will be critical.

With ulcers (I presume you mean either stomach or duodenal ulcers) I'd prefer to go very easy on aspirin, and if taking it, I would be careful not to take it on an empty stomach. If between meals, drink some milk first, to provide a thin coating for the stomach lining while the aspirin dissolves.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in my late 30s and have deep furrows between my eyes which I would like to have removed by injections. What specialist would do this? — Mrs. P.D.

Injections? No. But plastic surgery is commonly used for this, so ask your regular physician to refer you to a surgeon doing this work. Nose specialists and general surgeons occasionally do this sort of work, although not too many of them do.

Note to Mrs. A. K.: Some people are sensitive to coffee. It acts as a diuretic (makes kidneys work faster). Why not avoid coffee for a few days and see whether that's your trouble?

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Money Not Regarded As No. 1 Retirement Problem By Expert

by ROBERT PETERSON

Is money the No. 1 retirement problem of retired people? Many insist it is. Several of my colleagues who write about retirement seem to feel that if pensions and Social Security were doubled, we'd never hear another peep of despair from the 20 million Americans now past 65.

But one wonders. Statistics show that only one-fourth of our citizens past 65 have incomes below the so-called poverty levels. But this doesn't mean these people are hungry or miserable. This column has talked with dozens of elders on very low incomes who are remarkably cheerful, who enjoy their three meals a day and a roof over their heads, and couldn't care less that they can't afford an automobile or a trip to Europe. Despite their limited incomes they're apt to say their chief complaint is arthritis, inactivity, loneliness, or the fact that they can't see their grandchildren as often as they might wish.

One of the nation's top authorities on aging and retirement, Dr. Robert Havighurst of the University of Chicago, says firmly, "The greatest disadvantage is a moral and spiritual one, not an economic one." He adds: "Retirement is a crisis in the meaningful use of time. It forces a person to shift his major activity out of customary work roles, and to search for satisfaction in other roles still open to him as homemaker, parent, spouse, citizen, friend, association member, churchgoer, and user of leisure time."

"If work were regarded as drudgery and as unfitting for free men, there would be less of a problem in retirement. But most people have favorable attitudes toward work. Without regular work and things to do they tend to feel useless and unhappy."

He may be right. Most men and women respect work and find pleasure in it. They are often reluctant to retire and may find it difficult to secure substitute satisfaction from non-working roles. Of course, insufficient income is a grave and real problem for quite a few elders. But it could be that most retirees are better endowed with money than with optimism and the ability to use leisure time in a fully satisfying manner.

thinks there must be ragged hordes of helpless old people hidden away in charity hospitals, nursing homes, residence-care homes and mental hospitals. But the fact is that no more than three to five per cent of persons over 65 are in institutions of any kind.

"Another 5 to 10% of older people are disabled at home and are cared for by relatives . . . this leaves between 85 and 90% of the population over 65 sound in body and mind . . . quite capable of functioning normally despite personal difficulties."

is largely groundless, since only a small per cent of all older people are destined to become totally dependent on others."

National Group Backs Berg Campaign

By United Press International

Darrel Berg, First District congressional candidate, said Monday his campaign has been endorsed by a Washington, D.C. committee interested in congressional reform.

Berg, who is opposing incumbent Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., in the November election, said he is one of a dozen non-incumbent congressional candidates who have been endorsed by the "Committee for Twelve."

According to Berg, the committee's board of directors consists of 18 senators and congressmen, including Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, and Rep. James Abourezk, D-S.D.

"The Committee for Twelve has selected congressional candidates who offer a positive change from the district's present representation on such issues as tax reform, environmental protection and the Vietnam War," Berg explained.

"As a direct result of this endorsement, I expect to receive between three and five thousand dollars in campaign contributions," he said. "This money should help reduce the dollar advantage which Republican candidates normally enjoy in Nebraska congressional races."

Berg contended "the real message of this endorsement is that national attention has begun to focus on our obstructive First District congressman."

Conduit Flood Kills 12

Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia (P) — A flood in a conduit killed 12 workers at Konavosko Polje, south of Dubrovnik, on Saturday night. A 13th man in the work gang survived. The disaster was caused by a spring breaking through the 747-yard tunnel under construction to the sea coast.

Contending Thone opposed most aid-to-education bills, stronger consumer protection laws, improved water pollution controls and tax reform, Berg said, "the defeat of Mr. Thone is therefore not only in Nebraska's best interest, but also in the best interest of the rest of the country."

7 Ways You Can Save Money On Heating Costs This Winter

You can REDUCE your costs for heat and INCREASE your personal comfort by following these suggestions:

1 Tight-fitting storm windows will materially reduce heat loss and cold air infiltration through the windows of your house.

2 Caulk and weatherstrip around windows and doors and seal cracks to eliminate loss of heat and infiltration of cold air.

3 Install overhead and sidewall insulation to substantially reduce your winter heating bills.

4 Set the thermostat at your comfort level and leave it...keeping in mind that costs rise significantly for every degree your thermostat setting is increased.

5 Check the heat outlets to make sure they're not blocked by furniture or draperies.

6 Make sure your furnace is in top operating condition and filters are changed regularly. Have a qualified serviceman check your heating equipment regularly.

7 When your fireplace is not being used, be sure the damper is closed.

Each of these suggestions will save you money, conserve on energy and materially increase the comfort level of your home.

Cancer Linked To Moonshine

•The New York Times

Valhalla, N.Y. —A British specialist in the environmental causes of disease believes that he has found a link between the drinking of moonshine whisky and cancer of the esophagus, one of the most devastating forms of the disease.

The link is a chemical that appears to be found in crudely fermented whisky in many parts of the world, but that is effectively eliminated during the production of commercial whisky.

Dr. Neil D. McGlashan, senior lecturer in geography at the University of Tasmania in Australia, discussed his finding at a conference on environment and illness at Grasslands, the Westchester County hospital here.

McGlashan hopes to confirm his hypothesis by studying the incidence of esophageal cancer in areas of the United States where moonshine whisky is common.

So far his studies, which have been published in the British medical journal Lancet and other periodicals, have been based mainly in Central Africa and in Iran.

The substance that appears to cause the cancer is Dimethyl-N-Nitrosamine (DMN), which has been demonstrated to cause cancer in laboratory animals, including rats, rabbits, dogs and mice.

Working in Zambia, McGlashan first observed that esophageal cancer occurred in irregular patchwork patterns. He then noticed that the cases seemed to cluster around stores that sold an illegal whisky made of fermented maize called kachasu.

Areas of the country where the brew was unknown had a much lower incidence of esophageal cancer.

At first, McGlashan assumed that the cancer might be linked to zinc or copper contamination from parts of the crude stills. But when he sent samples of the whisky to England for laboratory analysis, he learned that they contained from one to three parts per million of DMN.

With a grant from the British Medical Research Council, he then found DMN in moonshine collected in Ghana, Nigeria, Senegal, Kenya, Uganda, Ireland, Canada and Yugoslavia.

At the invitation of the World Health Organization, McGlashan visited a research site in the Mazandaran province of Northern Iran, where the Moslem population does not drink alcohol. In Africa, six times as many men as women have esophageal cancer, but in Iran, women suffer from the disease as frequently as men.

McGlashan found traces of DMN in a fermented mixture of raisins, pomegranate seeds and peppercorns that pregnant Iranian women eat as an antidote to morning sickness.

McGlashan does not yet know how the DMN gets into the whisky, but suspects that it is formed by bacterial action in the nitrogen-rich fermenting environment.

Both charcoal filtration, a process used in making commercial gin and vodka, and fractional distillation, used in making commercial whisky, appeared to destroy the DMN completely. In Zambia, McGlashan showed the people how to filter their homemade brew using charcoal and blotting paper.

Cancer of the esophagus, which this year will account for some 6,300 deaths in the United States, is one of the most difficult of all cancers to treat. The five-year survival rate is barely 15%.

Clark's Speeches Cost Lives, Hope Tells VFW

Minneapolis, Minn. (UPI) — Comedian Bob Hope, in town to accept the Dwight D. Eisenhower award from the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW), Monday called the recent antiwar statements of Ramsey Clark "unfortunate."

Hope at an airport news conference became serious in answering questions on actress Jane Fonda and Clark, U.S. Attorney General under former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The VFW will consider a proposed resolution calling Miss Fonda and Clark "traitorous meddlers."

The resolution was one of many recommended by the VFW's Committee on Americanism and Communist Activities.

Both Clark and Miss Fonda visited Hanoi recently, criticized U.S. bombing of North Vietnam dikes and were broadcast over Hanoi radio.

Hope was to receive the award for "outstanding service to the country" in ceremonies Monday night at the national VFW convention. He was welcomed at the airport by National VFW Commander Joseph L. Vicites.

"I'm very happy to be accepting this award," Hope said. "President Eisenhower was a man I admired very much — his philosophy and his American way."

In answer to another question, Hope said, "I lay off comments on Jane Fonda. I know her father very well."

But on Clark, who recently visited Vietnam, Hope said he feared the former attorney general's statements attacking continued American bombing and the destruction of dikes in North Vietnam "cost us American lives."

"I think we are close to resolving this thing," he said. "I hate to see anything happen now."

Referring to peace negotiations, Hope said, "They are a slow process. I am no expert in this, but I hate to see anything interfere. It's unfortunate this happened."

Hope said he was "emotionally involved" in the Vietnam conflict.

"I see these boys making such a sacrifice," he said. "I visit the injured in the hospitals, and then I come home and see bickering politicians hurt our chances of ending the war."

Beatrice City Council Advances Water Hike

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — City Water customers will soon be paying higher rates if a new schedule gaining first-round approval Monday night clears the City Council on two more readings.

As recommended by the Board of Public Works and tentatively OK'd by the council, all users will get the boost except two fertilizer plants which are the largest customers. Both the minimum and quantity rates will be higher.

The smallest users, now paying $1 minimums, will be raised to $1.50 and all other classes will have $1 increases in minimum rates. In addition, the proposal calls for five-cent increases per 1,000 gallons used.

BPW manager S. R. Billingsley said the average customer, using about 10,000 gallons per month, would pay 90 cents more than under the existing schedule.

"As it is, the smallest users are being subsidized 58 cents per month by the larger customers," said the manager.

Billingsley said the increase would also permit paying off a utility indebtedness in seven years rather than 18 as would be the case under the present schedule. The new rates would also realize some $4,000 annually for replacing "under-size and inadequate mains."

In other action, the council accepted a $37,675 bid from Behrens Construction Co. on Paving District 258. The only bid received, it compared with an engineer's estimate of $36,400.

The council also: —approved renewal of on-sale beer license for the Pizza Hut, which recently was acquired by Pizza Hut of McCook, Inc.

—approved minor increases in rental schedule for use of city auditorium. —reappointed Mrs. Dorothy Marvin to five-year term on Library Board. —referred to traffic committee for further study proposal to restrict parking in alleys.

Two Canadian Convicts Hold Woman Hostage

New Westminster, B.C. (UPI) —Two convicts seized a woman employee at British Columbia Penitentiary Monday and threatened to kill the hostage and themselves unless they were given freedom.

A prison spokesman said the two inmates were negotiating with Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) for "a complete and total pardon, their immediate release and removal of all their criminal records."

He added the two inmates told the RCMP they would kill their hostage, Mrs. Jean Young, a classification officer, and themselves if the demands were not met.

"All we can do is keep talking with them," said a spokesman for penitentiary, director Frank Graves.

A prison official said the two inmates "just walked in" to the inmate administration building, inside the maximum security prison. Two prison employees were seized at knife-point, the official said, but one was released about 30 minutes later in exchange for the services of a third inmate as mediator.

The second hostage was later identified as Deputy Prison Director H. Gref.

An RCMP inspector arrived at the prison approximately one half hour after the hostages were taken and he relayed the prisoners' demands to the penitentiary director.

The spokesman said that since the prison records were kept in the room where the men were holding their hostage, no information on the convicts was immediately available.

He added, however, that one of the men had recently been transferred to the prison from eastern Canada.

He said the inmate administration building was always open to prisoners since it was the location for classification interviews.

The penitentiary is located about 10 miles east of Vancouver.

Boy Fighting Brain Cancer Dies At Home

Lovell, Wyo. (AP) — The year and one-half battle against terminal brain cancer of 10-year-old Danny Blackburn ended Monday in hospital here.

Danny made national news recently when an airline refused to fly him, his mother, a nurse and personal oxygen equipment from Denver to Billings, Mont., so he could return home. The airline said federal regulations prohibited the transportation of such equipment.

Another airline allowed the boy and his equipment onto the plane.

Donald Blackburn, the boy's father, said Monday, "Danny was a fighter, all the way through."

Danny didn't get to do the things he wanted to, he said, "like go to the distasteful, or see his grandparents' house. But he just went to sleep yesterday and didn't wake up."

The boy received get well cards and gifts from persons across the country, including President Nixon and country-western singer Johnny Cash.

Funeral services were pending Monday, but Blackburn said he hoped to hold them Thursday afternoon. The boy will be buried in Lovell.

Three Wounded After Chase From Valentine

Olsonville, S.D. (UPI) — Law enforcement officers from Nebraska and South Dakota shot it out near here Monday with a fugitive from California, resulting in the wounding of two officers and the suspect before the man was apprehended.

The fugitive was identified as Bobby Bradley Corle, 29, a parole violator from La Mesa, Calif.

The two wounded officers were Mellette County, S.D., Sheriff George Bowman of White River, who was hit twice in the chest, and Rosebud Tribal Officer Roy Black Lance, 33, who was wounded in the left forearm.

Bowman, 47, was listed in satisfactory condition at Cherry County Hospital in Valentine. Black Lance was treated and released.

Cherry County Sheriff Jim Ward said the ordeal began in Valentine when Corle tried to cash two allegedly forged checks at a local bank. Bank personnel became concerned and when they attempted to verify the checks, Corle fled.

Lawmen chased the fugitive north into South Dakota on Highway 83. South Dakota authorities set up roadblocks in several areas, with the search concentrated near here.

Corle's automobile was spotted by air and ground search vehicles near the home of John Brinda some 15 miles north of Valentine.

Ward said Corle barricaded himself inside the home of Bob Brinda after Mrs. Brinda and her family had fled to her father-in-law's some 150 yards away.

Approximately 25 law enforcement officials converged on the scene, where considerable gunfire was exchanged. Corle finally was forced to leave the house through the use of teargas, but not before the two officers were shot and he suffered shotgun wounds to the face, chest and neck.

Corle was not seriously hurt, however.

Corle was heavily armed with numerous rifles, shotguns and pistols when apprehended. He was taken to the Tripp County Jail in Winner, S.D.

Law enforcement officials aiding in the capture included local, county and state officers from Valentine, Neb., and Mission, Winner, Rosebud, Martin and White River, S.D.

Holdrege (AP) — Daryl W. Loeppke has resigned as Phelps-Gosper County agent, effective Sept. 15, to take a similar post in Cuming County, headquartered at West Point. He said his title would be county extension agent chairman. Holding the post here since November, 1966, he previously worked for the Kansas Extension Service.

Norfolk Site Urged For Thone-Berg Debate

Norfolk (AP) — The Madison County Democratic Party Chairman Jim Bruner has suggested a debate between First District Congressman Charles Thone and his November opponent Darrel Berg be held in Norfolk. Bruner said Thone, a Republican, won the county by 60% of the vote in the last election and should expect favorable reception. Berg, Thone's Democratic Party opponent, has requested a debate since he won in the primary.

March Of Dimes Fund Drive Up 22%

Omaha (AP) — Nebraskans gave $352,000 to the March of Dimes in the recently completed 1972 drive, 22% more than the $298,000 by 1971. J. Keith Cook of Omaha, state chairman, reported, Cook said he expects Nebraska to rank third nationally in per capita giving. Last year it ranked fourth. Per capita donations rose from 19 cents to 23 cents, he said.

Burgert Named Buffalo County Ag Agent

Kearney (UPI) — Kenneth L. Burgert, recent graduate of the University of Nebraska, has been appointed Buffalo County Extension service agent, effective Sept. 11. Burgert holds bachelor and master's degrees in agronomy and weed science. He will assume crop and science responsibilities both for adult and 4-H programs.

Graves Appointed UP Official

Omaha (AP) — Thomas B. Graves Jr. has been named assistant vice president-marketing for the Union Pacific Railroad in Omaha. Graves succeeds Dr. Reno C. Pretti, who has resigned. Graves moves to the Union Pacific from the Penn Central where he has been assistant vice president-automotive since 1971.

Nebraskans Attend Banking School

Madison, Wis. — Among the 1,548 student-bankers attending the annual two-week session of the annual Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin were these Nebraskans: August C. Holmquist and L. M. Novak, both of Lincoln, and Don D. Olson of Waverly.

Kearney Drug Unit Receives $20,000 Award

Kearney (UPI) — The Kearney Drug and Health Education Committee has received a $20,000 award from the Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The grant is for extension of technical assistance to communities across Nebraska. Communities with population of more than 3,000 may send two representatives to workshops at Kearney State College beginning in November.

Elderberry Pickers Mistaken By Officers

Papillion (AP) — A suspected marijuana picking episode turned out to be an elderberry picking event. Farmers in an area west of Richfield called Sarpy County deputy sheriffs to report seeing two persons in the high weeds picking something. Deputies found a man and his wife, each carrying a basket of elderberries.

Rape Charges Planned Against Trio In Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Two Omaha brothers were in custody and a third was being sought Monday in connection with the alleged rape of a retarded Omaha woman and the beating of her husband Saturday night.

Deputy County Atty. Tom Ryder said Monday that charges of forcible rape would be filed against Delbert L. Bowen, 26, and Lawrence E. Bowen, 23. Ryder said he would seek a warrant charging an older brother of the two with the same offense.

The victims, a 23-year-old woman and her 27-year-old husband, told police they were leaving a friend's house when three men offered them a ride Saturday evening.

The couple said they were driven to a park north of Omaha, where the woman told police she was raped by all three men and forced to perform unnatural sex acts. The man said he was beaten and his glasses were broken.

The couple said they were driven back to near where they were picked up and told by one of the three men that they would be killed if they contacted the police. The victims called police Sunday after a representative of a mental retardation group advised them to do so.

So. Dakotan's Body Is Found Near Bellevue

Omaha (AP) — Sarpy County authorities have identified the body of an apparent drowning victim as Richard Bradley Hilbray, 35, of South Dakota. They were not able immediately to determine his hometown.

Authorities said boaters discovered the body under the Bellevue bridge on the Missouri River Saturday night. Deputies said the man was identified through fingerprints.

Fire Hits Wymore Building

Wymore (AP) — Fire completely leveled Koons Chevrolet in Wymore early Monday, destroying an estimated 30 to 35 cars.

Officials said the fire broke out sometime around 1 a.m. and by 3 a.m. the brick building was burned to the ground with only a small portion of the south wall still standing.

Authorities were still investigating the cause of the fire Monday and no estimate of damage had been determined.

Reports said the fire burned through telephone lines behind the building, putting the entire southern half of the town out of service until late Monday afternoon. Until that time, mobile units had been placed in service to aid in emergency calls.

Firemen from Wymore and Blue Springs battled the blaze throughout the night before bringing it under control.

Authorities said the automobile showroom and the service area were also lost.

Woman Shot At Columbus

Columbus (UPI) — Mrs. Carol Loseke, 20, mother of two small children, was in satisfactory condition at a hospital here Monday after an apparent accidental shooting.

Mrs. Loseke told County Atty. Ray Baker that she had been shot accidentally by her husband, Richard. The incident occurred in the couple's home here.

Authorities said Mrs. Loseke suffered a bullet wound in the shoulder near the neck.

Jefferson County Political Leader Arthur J. Denney Dies At Age 82

Fairbury (AP) — Arthur J. Denney, father of U.S. District Judge Robert V. Denney of Omaha, died late Sunday night at Jefferson County Memorial Hospital in Fairbury.

The elder Denney, a longtime civic and political leader in Jefferson County, had been in ill health for some time. He was hospitalized only a few days before his death. He would have been 83 years old on Thursday.

Funeral services will be at the Christian Church here at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Denney was born in Daykin in Jefferson County.

The elder Denney, a longtime civic and political leader in Jefferson County, had been in ill health for some time. He was hospitalized only a few days before his death. He would have been 83 years old on Thursday.

Former Gov. Val Peterson named Mr. Denney as a member of the first three-judge panel to serve the newly-created Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations.

In 1936 Mr. Denney was the Republican nominee for

Arthur Denney

Congress from Nebraska's old 4th District. He was defeated in the general election by incumbent Rep. C. G. Binderup. In 1948, Denney lost the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor in the primary election to the late Charles Warner of Waverly.

Mr. Denney was a past commander of the Knights Templar of Nebraska. For many years he also was active in other Masonic bodies here. He was a past governor of the Iowa Nebraska district of Kiwanis International and past exalted ruler of the Fairbury Elks Lodge and a trustee of

Housing Directory Official Claims Action Is Premature

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The vice-president of Rental Housing Directory, Inc., accused the State Real Estate Commission Monday of prematurely authorizing action against his company without knowing the real nature of his business.

Al Gaub, who has been running the firm's office since it came to Lincoln 2 months ago, said, "It's a shame they didn't check the facts out before they authorized legal action against me."

Gaub said his firm is not acting as a real estate agent but as a "landlord advertising system" and consequently does not need a broker's license as the commission maintains.

"We don't show the real estate to people," Gaub said. "Once they find a place they'd like to rent, they go directly to the landlord. We strictly sell lists. There are no purchases made through us, and we don't get a commission."

"Mr. Quinlan never visited with me about the nature of our business."

Although the expense involved in getting a real estate broker's license is nominal, Gaub said it is the principle of the matter that is involved.

"So Should Star"

"If we have to get a real estate broker's license, then so should The Lincoln Star. We're doing the same thing — listing available living quarters," he said.

The firm exists in 15 Western states and is headquartered in Montana where his brother runs the network. Its Lincoln office opened 2 months ago and employs six people. Another office was opened in Omaha last week and employs seven people.

Two court precedents have been set in other states concerning the matter, he said. One was in Idaho, the other in Nevada. The officials in both states, he said, contended the firm must have a real estate broker's license. However, he said the courts threw the cases out.

"I talked to Mr. Douglas, and he said he was not going to file criminal action," Gaub stated.

But he added, "The publicity has not helped my business."

2 Die In Road Mishaps; Fatality Toll Up To 288

By The Associated Press

Two more persons have been killed in Nebraska traffic accidents, raising the state's 1972 highway fatality toll to 288, compared with 271 on this date one year ago.

Penal Complex Inmate Missing

An 18-year-old inmate of the Nebraska State Reformatory was being sought by authorities early Tuesday morning after he was reported missing at about 8:30 p.m. Monday, reported the penal complex records department supervisor Jim Lyons.

Bobby Parrish, 26, Terrytown, died Monday in a Cheyenne, Wyo., hospital of injuries received in a car-motorcycle collision on Broadway in Scottsbluff Sunday evening.

Authorities said Parrish, who was riding a motorcycle, was thrown 40 feet when he was involved in a collision with a car driven by Ricardo Vellejo of Scottsbluff.

The State Patrol said Monday it had received a delayed report of a traffic death resulting from an accident July 19 on a county road, about four miles northeast of Genoa.

The victim, Leni Biral, 57, of Switzerland, died in an Omaha hospital Aug. 18. The hospital said she died of injuries suffered in the crash.

The woman was a passenger in a car driven by Daniel Abegglen of Columbus when it was in collision with an auto driven by Harold Lang, also of Columbus, the patrol said.

WEATHER HELPS . . . Crop Maturity Gets Boost In Nebraska

Warmer temperatures over Nebraska last week gave a good boost to crop maturity, crop observers reported Monday.

In the Statistical Reporting Service weekly crop-weather report, it was noted that the hot temperatures also caused rapid depletion of top soil moisture. However, subsoil supplies were said to be generally adequate, and farmers with irrigation equipment were busy applying water to their crops.

"Row crop conditions are rated good to excellent over most of the state," the report stated. About 40% of the corn has reached the dough stage, and 15% has reached denting, statisticians said.

Sorghum maturity has advanced to 15% of the heads turning color, and greenbugs are no longer a problem, according to the report.

Soybean development was said to be near normal with leaves turning color on 5% of the acreage.

Other comments:
Sugar beet, potato and dry bean crops are making good development. Mold and blight have threatened some of the bean acreage, but the warmer temperatures aided control of these problems.

Farmers made good progress in hay operations this past week, and about 50% of the third crop of alfalfa has been harvested.

Heat and humidity have caused much discomfort to livestock, with a small but undetermined number of deaths reported in eastern areas.

Moisture received during the past week included:

East	Grand Island N. 40	Norfolk 16
Central	Lincoln 16	Central 16
West	Valentine 46	West 46
Chadron 01	Sidney 02	Scottsbluff 56

Precipitation via sections since the beginning of the growing season in April as compared to longtime averages is:

Northwest	10.40 inches (1972); 10.48 inches (normal)
North Central	15.83; 12.76
Northeast	19.98; 14.81
Central	15.58; 13.92
East Central	17.49; 15.85

Conservationists Urged To Differentiate Terms

By The Associated Press

Conservation educators were urged Monday to distinguish between "conservation" and "preservation" and inform the public of "proper conservation techniques."

The request was made by Warren Fairchild, an assistant commissioner with the Federal Bureau of Reclamation, in a keynote address to the national conference of the Conservation Education Association.

The four-day conference opened Monday with about 140 delegates in attendance from 35 states and Canada.

"To conserve is to manage wisely and prevent exploitation," Fairchild said. "Preservation strongly implies non-use, especially for the present."

"Conservation, at times, may require non-use as the wisest management choice," he said. "In these instances, and only in these instances, would I consider conservation and preservation as having identical goals."

"Constant improvement of our technology to provide the needed food, minerals and energy for a growing population while maintaining a livable environment is the challenge of the present and the future," Fairchild told his audience.

Woman Held In Death Of Omaha Man

Omaha (AP) — Police booked an Omaha woman on suspicion of homicide Monday night in connection with the shooting death of Kenneth Allen Stuart, 35, of Omaha.

Police said Heidi McGuire, 23, also of Omaha, was being held.

The woman told police Stuart was shot during a fight in which she had been beaten.

Miss McGuire said Stuart put a .38 caliber pistol in her hand, and said "you don't have the guts to shoot me." She told officers she was not sure how the gun discharged, but that Stuart had the barrel of the pistol in his stomach when he handed it to her.

Police said there were no other witnesses to the shooting.

Police said the victim and Miss McGuire resided at the same address.

Thone Reports Norfolk Airport To Get $264,800

Washington (AP) — Rep. Charles Thone announced Monday a $264,800 grant for work at the Norfolk airport.

Thone said the work at the Carl Stefan Memorial Airport will consist of overlaying and making a runway, construction taxiways to both runways and construction on the apron.

He said the grant was from the Federal Aviation Administration.

Certification Requirement Causes M. Abbert To Quit Regional Center

Hastings (UPI) — Supt. Martin Abbert of the Hastings Regional Center resigned his post Monday because of certification difficulties.

Dr. Abbert, 35, wrote his resignation to Dr. Jack Anderson, director of medical services for the State Department of Institutions.

He said his main reason for resigning was a requirement of the Joint Committee on Accreditation which states that superintendents of regional centers must be board-certified psychiatrists. It also requires that they have additional training in administrative psychiatry.

Dr. Abbert told Dr. Anderson he did not believe he could obtain the certification required or the additional training with the work load required at the Hastings facility.

Chronic Case Load

Dr. Abbert also cited present plans for the Hastings Center to take over the chronic case load of the Norfolk Regional Center.

Dr. Anderson said the chronic patients require more constant care than acute mental patients. Dr. Abbert said his training and interest are directed more toward acute psychiatry.

By leaving, Abbert said, he will enable himself to find a job and acquire additional training.

Dr. Anderson said in an interview that Dr. Abbert's resignation could have been precipitated by a meeting last week with a subcommittee of the Legislature's Budget Committee. He said the matter of certification was discussed at the meeting, although the resignation was not.

Selection Planned

Dr. Anderson said two or three men are under consideration for the post and the selection probably will be made in a week or 10 days.

Dr. Abbert, Dr. Anderson said, "is a hard-working, competent psychiatrist. At times, he has extended himself because of a shortage of staff members but always responded by working harder to accomplish his goals."

He said Abbert had been offered an opportunity to remain in the state system in a job which would permit him to acquire additional training.

Dr. Abbert has been superintendent since 1969 and a staff member since 1966.

Problems Will Only Multiply Without Uniform Pay-Peters

By United Press International
State Personnel Director William Peters told a committee of the Legislature Monday unless a uniform pay plan is adopted for state government employees soon, problems would only multiply.

"We will never have an equitable system of pay unless we start off with one now," Peters told the Retirement Systems Committee, which was conducting a hearing on the plan.

Earlier this summer, the Exon administration unveiled a uniform plan for state government employees and asked each agency to base next year's budgets on it.

Peters conceded there would be immediate problems if the plan is adopted by the Legislature. But he said the problems would be of an individual employee nature.

Overall, he said, the plan suggested "is equitable for the majority of people."

One immediate benefit employees would gain, he said, is the ability to protect their earning ability over a period of time.

"Up to now a state employee could not project where he will be in five years," Peters said.

Can't Predict
At present, he said, employees within a single agency are not able to predict future pay levels because of a lack of uniformity.

Cited as an example was the State Education Department where one person classified as a "buyer" makes $472 a month, while another person with the same title makes $692 a month.

"This is why we need the pay plan — to remove inequities," Peters said.

Marlan Rein, legislative fiscal analyst, however, noted the stated intent of the plan is not to lower the rates being paid at present but simply not to grant increases for those making more than the scale provides. In that way, he said, the plan appears to promote the continuance of overpayments.

Peters said that would be only the short run result. On the other hand, he said, unless a plan is adopted, such inequities would continue indefinitely.

"Thus, the best way to do away with these things is to put everybody in this right now" and let time do the problem solving, he said.

Good Work Unrewarded
During the hearing, others criticized the plan for not offering ways of recognizing exceptional employees over those just doing their job. As written, the plan would grant raises to those given a "satisfactory" rating by supervisors.

Peters said a uniform recognition system for exceptional employees would have to be added later and for the first cycle of operation both kinds of employees would have to receive the same pay.

"We just don't have a sound basis for doing this as yet," he said.

However, he did suggest that agencies offer something besides pay to exceptional employees, if a promotion cannot be arranged, until such time as a system has been devised.

"There are other ways of recognizing exceptional work," he said, such as extra vacation time or a paid-for parking space.

Santee Sioux Pow-Wow Set For 3-Day Run

The third annual pow-wow of the Santee Sioux will begin Friday evening near the banks of the Lewis and Clark Lake and continue through Sunday.

There will be the traditional ceremonial Indian dancing with dancers from many parts of Nebraska and throughout the country. Other activities will include softball and horseshoe contests, and two meals a day will be served.

Admission to the pow-wow is $1 for adults, and 50 cents for children.

The village of Santee, the site of the pow-wow, is about 15 miles from Niobrara on the Lewis and Clark Lake.

Two Sought In Lightning Rod Sales Scheme

Logan, Iowa (AP) — Western Iowa and Nebraska law enforcement officers were on the lookout Monday for two men believed linked to a lightning rod sales scheme here.

Authorities said Alma Scherer, 82, of Logan, paid $4,250 last month for lightning rods installed at her home.

Harrison County Sheriff Louie Alstott said the woman was contacted last week and was told she still owed $3,200 for installation of the devices.

She was instructed to leave her check for that amount at the Logan post office addressed to Gene Lake, general delivery.

Lawmen said two men picked up the envelope — containing no money or check — on Monday and fled before they could be apprehended.

Group Plans Meeting
The regular monthly meeting of the Advisory Committee to the Department of Public Institutions has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday at the Hastings Regional Center, as a routine institutional visitation by the committee.

Nixon Signs Bill To Ease Student Loan Situation

Signing of a bill by President Nixon has suspended a group of confusing amendments which had threatened the qualifications of many Nebraska students to take part in a federally-subsidized student loan program.

The loan program in question is one in which the federal government pays interest on loans for education while a student remains in school.

According to Dr. Harry Canon of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln: "Many students who had been advised that they would not qualify for the interest subsidy benefits may now be eligible thanks to this latest action."

"About 3,000 students here at the University had applied. About 800 to 1,000 of them had to be told that they qualified only for a federally-insured loan on which they would be required to pay the interest while attending school, due to a tightening of Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulations concerning eligibility.

"With the temporary suspension of these more stringent regulations, a significant number of the students who had not qualified earlier for federal payment of interest while in school may now be able to qualify," Canon said.

"It would appear that students whose parents have an adjusted family income of less than $15,000 per year will now qualify for the interest subsidy," said Jack Ritchie of the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aids.

Ritchie said that further information concerning eligibility should be announced this week by HEW.

varieties of wheat available, so control can be accomplished only through cultural practices.

Palmer said the only method to control the disease is to work the land that was in wheat this year to kill all volunteer plants which emerged as a result of hailstorms. The land can be worked any time before sowing and should be worked at least one to two weeks prior to sowing, he said.

Palmer also urged farmers to plant recommended varieties at the proper time.

Mujibur Staying At Geneva Villa

Grand Island Police Chief Fails To Halt His Demotion

Grand Island (UPI) — Police Chief Michael Gephardt failed Monday to block his demotion to the rank of captain.

His attorneys said they would now seek a public hearing before the Grand Island Civil Service Commission.

A request by Gephardt for a restraining order against the demotion, to be followed by a permanent injunction, was denied by District Court Judge Lloyd Kelly.

City Manager John Carpenter Monday filed a letter detailing reasons for the demotion with the Civil Service Commission.

Carpenter charges that under Gephardt there has been a "lack of leadership and organization in the police department."

Gephardt said in a statement Friday that the demotion resulted from "personal differences" between him and Carpenter and said he would present his side of the matter "before the proper judicial body."

Mobile Home Travel Rules Changed

By State Press International
The United States Department announced Monday mobile homes up to 12 feet in width may now travel the interstate highways in Nebraska under a new excess width and weight permit system.

Previously, mobile homes traveling the interstate were restricted to a maximum of 10 feet in width.

However, the department said, those homes 12 feet wide must have a warning car 300 feet to the rear of the towing vehicle to advise drivers of the upcoming wide load.

Waverly Firm Purchased By Apache Corp.

Waverly — Acquisition of National Crane Corporation of Waverly by Apache Corp. of Minneapolis was announced Monday. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

Sales in 1971 for National Crane were $5 million, rising to $3 million for the first half of this year.

National Crane manufactures and markets truck-mounted cranes used for handling both material and personnel. It serves diversified markets throughout the U.S., including utilities, construction, airline, trucking, railroad and nursery industries.

Raymond Plank, president of Apache, said management manufacturing, design and marketing personnel of National Crane will remain with the company.

About 200 men and women are employed at National Crane's 75,000 square foot plant, located on a 54-acre plot adjacent to Interstate 80, about six miles northeast of Lincoln.

Marlo Burg, president of National Crane, will remain as head of the Waverly plant.

In 1971 Apache's revenue stood at $97.6 million, and for the first half of this year revenues exceed $58 million.

NAPE Wants Payoff Plan Reconsidered

The Nebraska Association of Public Employees (NAPE) has asked the University of Nebraska Board of Regents to reconsider its decision allowing the group to have dues checkoffs on employee payroll checks.

NAPE attorney Douglas Marti said he told Regents Chairman Ed Schwartzkopf in a letter the action means preference is shown by the board "to an international union over a local association comprised solely of Nebraska public employees."

The university currently allows dues checkoffs for members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO.

The rejection of the request was detailed in a letter from UNL personnel director Roy V. Loudon Jr., Marti said. According to Marti, Loudon said a major prerequisite is that the organization must be recognized as an exclusive bargaining agent.

The state colleges board of trustees has also refused to allow NAPE checkoffs.

"We think the State of Nebraska would rather deal with a local association of public employees," Marti said.

The change was submitted to a public hearing last month along with other changes to regulations governing the movement of mobile homes. The department said attorneys gave the final approval to the regulations resulting from that hearing Monday morning to go into immediate effect.

Also included in the amended regulations was a partial reinstatement of the advance warning or "flag car" requirement.

The department dropped the requirement on March 31 of this year but said during the public hearing it had received "hundreds of letters and phone calls" in protest of the move.

In response, the department decided to require flag cars in some instances.

In the case of the interstate, the flag cars are required only for the homes 12 feet in width and not for those less than that.

On all other state highways, the flag car requirement applies only to mobile homes 14 feet in width. However, the difference between other highways and the interstate is that the flag car must be 300 feet in front of the towing vehicle.

Traffic Safety Conference Planned

A governor's traffic safety conference will be held Sept. 9 in Lincoln, State Highway Safety Program Director Rodney Hutt announced Monday.

One of the topics for discussion will be how to bring Nebraska into compliance with safety standards set by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

YOUR Independent Insurance AGENT

"SERVES YOU FIRST"

This message is brought to you by concerned citizens for your safety
Lincoln Association of Independent Insurance Agents

This is the rainy season in the warm Caribbean. (But hotel prices are half those of the fashionable winter.)

The northeast trade winds bring a refreshing daily shower. The sparkling blue sky is suddenly covered with fierce, black clouds. The wind hits the coco palms and sets them all a-clatter.

There is a roll of thunder and crash! Great buckets of rain splash the ground. Rattle like a shot on the roof.

In 20 minutes it is over. The clouds roll onward. The sun comes out as warm as a bank loan. And all over the green grass there are instant diamonds.

The island's first governor was Juan Ponce de Leon. He began the great fortifications that surround the old town. (The work was so strong that early day Chambers of Commerce couldn't tear them down. They tried to in the glorious name of "modernization." Luckily, they failed.)

In the old city, Juan stands in iron. Cast from British captured cannon.

The statute is a picture of the dashing conquistador. Helmet on his head. Sword pointed to the city's plush hotel row — maybe he's protesting his bill.

Anyway, Juan is held in high regard now. And rums, dry cleaners and hotel bars are named for him.

Rum and sugar cane were the products of the island. And, of course, a lot of plundered gold went through this important port — a whole lot of it sinking on the reef off Anagada Island, a hundred miles east.

If you are thinking of buried treasure, I have an excellent map. It shows where the warship L. Victoria went down in 1738 — she carried $1,750,000 in gold and silver.

Never been salvaged, sir. She lies in shoal water. If you'd like to invest a trifle of money—

Rum and sugar and African slaves were not enough for Juan Ponce de Leon.

"Boys," said Juan, "I have got a good thing here. But I am not getting any younger. "Up yonder," said the governor, "I hear of a piece of real estate named Florida. In this fabulous land, is a Fountain of Youth."

"You put a little of this branch water in your rum," said Juan, "and your arteries begin to sing. Your long lost hair grows back and the local dolls look like a chorus line."

With this kind of chatter, Juan had no trouble lining up a crew. For nearly everybody wanted to buy the moon.

Well, as every school boy knows, Juan did not find the Fountain of Youth. He came home to Puerto Rico and simply got more mileage on him.

When he passed to his reward, his old shipmates buried him in the old San Jose church. You see it on the little plaza.

"Not to speak ill of the dead," they said, "but Juan Ponce de Leon certainly led us down the garden path with that fountain story."

This was all in ancient days. When people were ignorant and gullible.

These days, all the tourist ladies come to the island and get young. They simply stay in the sun until they are the color of cinnamon. Then they go and get a facial that contains avocado and queen bee jelly. Which, as anyone knows, makes everybody youthful.

While Juan lay forgotten in the San Jose church, the British and Dutch and pirates took shots at the rich port. But they were unable to breach the 20-foot walls laid down by the Spanish Governor.

So by and by, somebody said: "Juan Ponce de Leon wasn't such a bad old guy at that."

And somebody else said: "A good historic figure like that is very interesting to tourists."

So they got Juan up and buried him in the cool Cathedral. And they took some captured British cannon and cast them into a statue. And there he stands, sword at the ready. Looking as young as the day he landed here.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Tuesday

When it comes to holding tight to assets, Cancer is likely to lead the way. Natives of this zodiac sign are capable of accumulating large amounts of money. These persons have long memories and seldom forget a wrong. It is best to have the Cancer person as an ally. Otherwise, you could have a formidable foe.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent now is on what you want and how to obtain it. Change of scenery indicated. Intensified relationship is featured. You deal with Gemini and Virgo individuals. You're due to have more fun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Ambitions are featured. Set sights on goal. Be sure you know what it is you really seek. Don't fool yourself. You will be given unusual opportunity. Libra individual could play prominent role. Accept added responsibility.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good lunar aspect now coincides with journey, education, special mission which adds to knowledge. Be perceptive. Choose quality. Eschew get-rich-quick scheme. One close to you whispers sweet nothings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Investments, money, affecting male or partner, these are featured. Dig deep for information. Refuse to be satisfied with the superficial. Capricorn is likely to be involved. What you seek is temporarily hidden.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Lie low. Play waiting game. Permit others to have their say. Your time will come — right now you should plan and observe. Legal affairs are spotlighted. Finish task. Don't hang on to situation that is finished.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Guard possessions and, more important, protect health. Change of pace is necessary. Get together with one who understands and shares interests. Original ideas click if you don't overextend yourself. You will comprehend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your intuition is target. Aquarian figures in important way. Family member makes request. Be receptive but don't make long-range commitment. Creative endeavors succeed. Change, travel and variety are featured.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Display sense of humor. Be versatile. Expand horizons. Enhance security. Give attention to home, basic needs. In stating views, be forthright. Get rid of pretense. Be yourself. Then you will succeed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent in ideas that need development. Relatives and short journeys are in picture. Prospects are brighter than might be apparent on surface. Don't overlook details. Study fine print.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Ideas can be transformed into profit. Key is to put promotion into motion. Gemini and Virgo are in picture. Genuine bargains are available. Fine for paying and collecting. Get accounts straight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Cycle high; take initiative. Be independent and original. New contacts are favored. Relationships can become meaningful. You get attention. Wear bright colors; exude optimism. Dare to be different.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Work behind scenes. Co-operate in charitable project. Visit those who are confined or handicapped. Adhere to principles of Golden Rule. Ultimate gain indicated through one associated with large group.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you were on your own early. You carved out a place for yourself. You were separated from parents. You are due for significant change in October. If single, marriage is on horizon. Married or single, you will be going places, doing things.

Brides At Late August Weddings

On Saturday evening, Aug. 19, the marriage of Miss Launa Kraus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kraus of Denton, to Kenneth McMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McMillan of Crete, was solemnized at the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Crete. The Rev. Paul Schmidt officiated at the 7 o'clock ceremony.

Mrs. Kevin Kraus attended the bride as the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids included Mrs. Tom Troyer of Milford; Mrs. Barry Brabander of Grand Island, and Mrs. Larry Butt of Omaha. Miss Marcia Trepka of Crete was the bridesmaid.

John Meier of Grand Island served Mr. McMillan as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Roger McMillan of Crete; Kent Kraus of Denton; Kevin Kraus, and Larry Butt of Omaha, Jerry Allen, Ron Dittmer, and Dwaine Novak Jr. of Pleasant Dale.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of organza over taffeta designed in the Empire mode. The snugly-fitted bodice featured a wedding band collar, and a rounded yoke of Chantilly lace, contoured with an organza ruffle. The lace was repeated to fashion the leg o'mutton sleeves. The softly-gathered skirt was accented with appliques of the lace, and was completed with a wide ruffle which extended into a cotillion-length train. A bandeau of organza petals held in place her elbow-length veil.

The bride presently is a cosmetologist with the House of Holloway. Mr. McMillan is a senior at the University of Nebraska.

On Friday afternoon, Aug. 18, the marriage of Miss Catherine Ann Keane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Keane of Davey, to Robert Eugene Matulka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Matulka, Jr., of Valparaiso, took place at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Davey. The 3:30 o'clock service was solemnized by Msgr. D. L. Barry.

The fivesome of attendants included Miss Susan Keane of Davey, who was her sister's maid of honor; and bridesmaids Miss Marla Berggren, Miss Jean Sousek, and Miss Mary Keane and Miss Shelly Keane, both of Davey.

Leonard Cernik of Wahoo served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Dennis Brabec of Wahoo, Gordon Ohnoutka, Ron Matulka, and Danny Masek, all of Valparaiso; Patrick Keane of Davey, and Al Benes of Agnew.

The bride appeared in a gown of dotted swiss and Venice lace designed in the Empire mode. The bodice, fashioned with a portrait neckline and sheer Bishop sleeves which were banded and cuffed with the lace, was smoothly fitted above the softly gathered A-line skirt. A Camelot cap held to the head her chapel-length mantilla which was edged with the lace, and she carried a bouquet of daisies and pompon chrysanthemums, in pastel shades.

The bride is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in medical technology, and where she is a member of Lambda Tau honorary. Mr. Matulka is caring at the American Stores in Lincoln.

This most recent heat wave, from which we have had practically no relief for the past week or so — except for the welcome, but brief thunderstorm on Sunday evening — has been hard on all of us. It has created record short fuses on tempers and also has served as the impetus for record power usages.

However, many of us are comforted and made to appreciate the sizzling days when we ponder the snowflakes and colds which are just around the corner — and that thought often has a cooling effect.

Believe it or not, our 90-degree temperatures were a welcome relief for certain suburban residents who recently returned from a super sizzling Las Vegas, Nev.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Warner and their children, Vincent and Angela, all of Southwood, were in Las Vegas about a week ago when all records were smashed by 117-degree temperatures.

Despite the unbearable temperatures, the family managed to have a delightful 10-day stay in the 'Fun City,' where they were the guests of Mr. Warner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rolly Weber, who make their home in Las Vegas.

Joining the Warners in Las Vegas were Mr. Warner's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyons and their children, Greg and Lisa, who all drove in from their Pomona, Calif. home for a brief visit.

En route home, the suburbans drove through the mountains where Mr. Warner and Vincent fished in the Colorado River — and the family also did some sightseeing in Idaho Springs, Colo.

After waiting nearly all summer, only to have their plans postponed time and again, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nelson of Park Manor and their sons finally were able to roll out the welcome mat on Friday evening when Mrs. Nelson's sister and her family made their long-awaited arrival.

Guests at the Nelson home this week will be Mr. and Mrs. Monte Buel and their son, Matthew, of New Orleans, La. — and you can bet that the two sisters have much news to catch up on, for it has been two years or so since they last saw each other.

The Buels will be guests of honor at a family picnic to take place this evening — and, included at the family affair, will be Mrs. Buel's other brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barnett, as well as her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Daharsh, and children, of Omaha.

Also during their stay here, Mrs. Buel and her family, will journey to Milford to visit her father, Lloyd Daharsh.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson and their family of Clifford Place, traveled in the wrong direction recently on their vacation, if — that is, they planned to escape the hot humid weather that we have been experiencing in Lincoln.

The family car pulled a travel trailer down to El Paso, Tex., where the travelers were not exposed to extremely high humidity, but the temperatures were soaring. The trip, however, was worth the heat because while in Texas they visited Mrs. Thompson's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Bassler.

After a brief stay in Texas, the Thompsons decided to do homecoming by way of Southern California, where they visited Mr. Thompson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and their children of Corona, Calif. California is an excellent and popular state for tourists, so our Lincoln residents saw many interesting sights including, of course, Disneyland.

Their trip took them across 4,000 miles of the beautiful United States, and on their return they stopped to camp in scenic Mesa Verde, Colo.

Mrs. Thompson tells us that earlier this summer the family enjoyed two relaxing weeks at Maple Lake in Minnesota, where they visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Isaacson of Grand Forks, N.D., at their Minnesota summer home.

Lessons Offered

Ideas for Christmas gifts and home decorating holiday themes will be the topic of lessons to be offered this week at Grace Lutheran Church, 2225 Washington St., and sponsored by the Lancaster County Extension Office.

Miss Sue Waltemath, a student at the University of Nebraska College of Home Economics, will serve as instructor for the lessons.

The classes in home decorating and gift ideas for children and teenagers, will be held on Tuesday morning, Aug. 22, at 9:30 o'clock, and at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon on Wednesday, Aug. 23.

To register for the class, interested persons are asked to contact the Lancaster County Extension Office.

April, 1973, does seem a long way off, but when you are planning to entertain many out-of-towners at a regional conference, you certainly want to be well prepared.

The members of the Soroptimist Club of Lincoln rank among the early birds, for they gathered at Hotel Radisson-Cornhusker on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 19, to map out the initial plans for that April weekend when their club will host the North Central Region's 58th conference.

Of course, the soroptimists had guests who contributed a great deal toward organizing the program—and their guests were members of the regional board of directors of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc.

Pictured during a planning session on Saturday afternoon

Standing, from the left, are Mrs. John Bauer, Sr., of Beatrice, treasurer; Miss Norma Glidden of Marshalltown, Iowa, secretary; Dr. Harriet C. Westover of Sloan, Iowa, board member; and Mrs. Pauline D. O'Brien of Des Moines, Iowa, former governor and board adviser.

Surprise Courtesy

Bride-elect Miss Nancy Hobson was in for a day of surprises on Sunday, Aug. 20.

First, the soon-to-be bride, whose marriage to Daniel Wheeler takes place in September was directed to a certain location for an unknown reason — to learn all too soon that she was the guest of honor at a surprise personal shower.

But that was not the end of the surprises — Miss Hobson was in for a shock when she saw all of her friends decked out in their bathrobes, and shower caps for the party. You see, the hostesses, Miss Jan Kelley, Mr. Tom Slaughter, and Miss Rita Neill, had instructed all of the guests to arrive in their bathing attire. And that's when the fun started, and the shower held at Miss Kelley's home developed into a delightful afternoon for all concerned, particularly the honoree.

Colorado Ceremony Is Solemnized

Grand Lake, Colo., on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 19, the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Arndt Brownlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Brownlee, Jr., of Winter Park, Fla., to Robert Frederick Griego, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Griego of Omaha, took place.

Miss Ann Brownlee of Winter Park, Fla., was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant.

Paul Griego of Omaha served his brother as best man, and the ushers included John Huebner, Christopher Griego of Omaha, and John T. Brownlee, III, of Orlando, Fla.

For her wedding, the bride appeared in a gown designed of delicately crocheted lace. Above the A-line skirt, the smoothly sculptured bodice was fashioned with full, sheer sleeves and a mandarin collar. A Victorian shawl of the lace formed her mantilla.

The bride, who will serve as resident director of Mari Sandoz Hall at the University of Nebraska, is a graduate of the university where she majored in speech and hearing pathology and where she is affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She received her Masters degree in student personnel from Ohio State University. Mr. Griego is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is currently a second year student in the College of Law. His fraternity is Phi Delta Theta.

MISS LINDA RASMUSSEN

Of interest to University of Nebraska campus circles this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rasmussen of Waterbury, of the engagement of their daughter, Linda, to Ronald Reiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Buettner of Valentine.

The wedding is planned for Friday, Dec. 22.

Miss Rasmussen is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in business education, and where she is a member of Kappa Delta sorority. The bride-elect also is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta honorary.

Mr. Reiser also is a senior at the University of Nebraska where he is majoring in business administration. His fraternity is Alpha Gamma Rho.

Outstanding Women

Two members of the Mrs. Jaycees of Lincoln have been named Outstanding Young Women of America for 1972. Those who were nominated by the Mrs. Jaycees and selected for the national honors are Mrs. Gerald Dolson and Mrs. Marlin Luff.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program, now in its eighth year, recognizes young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions, and country.

More than 6,000 young women are nominated annually by civic organizations, churches, and college alumni associations throughout the country.

Mrs. Dolson was named last year's Outstanding Mrs. Jaycee Award recipient, and, within that organization, she has devoted many hours in such capacities as treasurer, member of the style show committee, the Measles Clinic, and the Jaycee and Mrs. Jaycee inaugural banquet. She and her husband attended the national Jaycee convention which was held in Atlanta, Ga., and she also is the current co-president of the May Morley PTA.

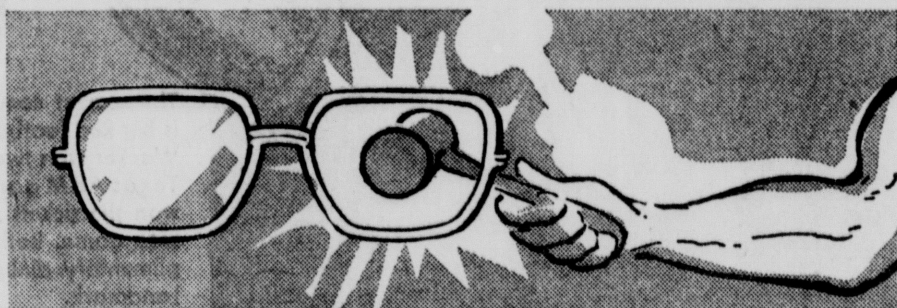

Mrs. Luff has been named recipient of the Mrs. Jaycee Distinguished Service Award and has held several offices in that organization, including treasurer, state director, publicity director, and chairman of decorations for the state convention. She also has assisted with the Mrs. Jaycees style show, the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast, and junior wrestling, as well as attending the national Jaycee convention. In other areas, she is a member of the Lincoln Public Schools Clerical Association — she is secretary at Maude Rousseau School — the Hastings College Alumni Association, and the Nebraska Federation of Young Republicans, for which she served as a delegate to the 1972 state convention, and she is the current assistant editor. She also is member of the board of the Merle Beattie PTA.

The women selected nationally as outstanding Young Women of America now have been entered in competition for further state and national awards. One from each state will be selected as their state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year, and from the 50 state winners, 10 will be selected for Outstanding Young Women of America honors.

PWP Has Anniversary

The Lincoln Chapter of Parents Without Partners has increased its membership nearly a hundredfold since its inception six years ago. That fact, alone, would be cause for a celebration—but, combined with the club's sixth anniversary, such a party really took shape.

So, on Saturday evening, Aug. 19, the club which originated with 15 members, and now claims 130 single Opening lead — four of diamonds.

Let's assume you're in four hearts and West leads a diamond. How should you play the hand?

If you finessed the diamond, a perfectly natural thing to do, East would win and shift to a spade, forcing out your ace. You would then be in sad shape and eventually lose two spades, a diamond and a club to go down one.

You could dismiss the hand by attributing the outcome to bad luck — after all, West could have had the king of diamonds — but if you study the matter more closely you find that finessing the diamond is a bad move.

You have a much better chance for the contract by taking the ace of diamonds at trick one and playing a low club from dummy at trick two. In the actual hand, if you do this, you eventually make four hearts.

The best the enemy can do is win the club, cash the king of diamonds and shift to a spade. You win, play a club to the ace, ruff a club high, cash the A-K of trumps, ruff another club high, reenter dummy with a trump and discard one of your spades on the ten of clubs. Making four.

Played this way, you make the contract if the trumps are divided 2-2 or 3-1 and the clubs are divided either 3-3 or 4-2.

You are much more likely to find the hearts and clubs divided in this manner than you are to find West with the king of diamonds, and hence rejecting the diamond finesse if the proper play.

Note also that you must lead a low club from dummy at trick two, not the ace. If you were to lead the ace first, you would eventually go down one. If you don't believe it, try it and see what happens.

LEA Members Vote 3 To 1 For Wage, Fringe Benefits

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Members of the Lincoln Education Association (LEA) have voted three-to-one approval to a 1972-73 wage and fringe benefits package already okayed by the Lincoln Board of Education.

LEA Executive Secretary Ely Feistner said Monday a count of ballots showed the teachers approved the package by a vote of 581 to 182, or approximately 76% to 24%.

Although more than 500 LEA members did not cast ballots, Feistner said many of them may have been unreachable because of summer vacations.

This is the first year such a vote has not been taken during the school year.

Teacher approval of the package — which calls for increases averaging about 5.7% in salary and fringes — apparently ends a stalemate that came to a head last May when talks between negotiators for the LEA and the school board were called off.

The only major items on which the sides agreed before the stand-off were an increase in the death benefit and the administrator salary schedule.

That schedule will provide a salary-only increase of about 5.3% for administrators, compared with the 5.44% increase contained in teacher salary schedule approved Monday. Most of the items in the settlement on which teachers voted were suggested by a three-member fact-finding team which was called in when the contract talks broke down.

Fact-Finders Named

The fact-finders were named after the school board refused to budge from its offer for a 5.3% salary-only hike, and the LEA held to its own proposal for a 6.5% salary-only increase.

Although fewer teachers voted on the package this year than last, the margin of approval was greater.

In 1971, voting on a salary-only increase of 5.9% (it amounted to 6.3% with fringe benefits) the LEA membership gave its approval by a vote of 812 to 421 or about two to one.

Here is a summary of the major items in this year's settlement:

—the "base salary" for teachers with bachelors degrees and no previous experience will increase from $6,825 to $6,950.

—salary increases for individual teachers will range from zero to more than 10% with an overall average of about 5.44%.

—the death benefit will increase from $3,000 to $5,000.

—the school district's contribution to health insurance premiums will increase from $11 to $13.50 per month.

—more consistency will be achieved in the salary schedule, thus ensuring that in future years the size of salary boosts for various teachers will be more equal.

—some staff members will be able to accumulate more sick leave.

—arbitrary time deadlines for maternity leave will be dropped.

—studies will be made to determine the most equitable time schedule for paying teachers and to investigate current pay levels for teachers who take on extra duties.

HE'S THE WINNER

Four-year-old Darin Dunn of Fairfield, Iowa, wasn't too happy about competing in the four-year-olds' tractor contest at the Iowa State Fair but the young lad, knowing his mother was at the finishing line, pedaled his heart out for a first place victory.

FBI, Police Probe Theft Of $40,000 Of Mag Wheels

Police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are investigating the theft of some $40,000 worth of magnesium wheels allegedly taken from a truck load brought into Lincoln last week from Western Wheel Co. in Fresno, Calif.

According to police reports, 2,000 "mag" wheels brought to Lincoln for possible sale are missing from the load and some attempts have been made since the wheels turned up missing to sell some of them at $11 each to a local retailer who refused to buy any of them.

The retailer told police that he at first thought that the Western Wheel Co. had a surplus which it was trying to sell when he was offered the wheels at $11 each. According to police reports, the retailer said when he was first contacted he attempted to check with the company about the surplus possibility but was unable to reach his contact.

However, he said that when he was contacted a second time by another individual who also offered the wheels at $11 each he checked with the company and found that they were not surplus wheels at all.

Catholic School Official Announces Free, Reduced-Price Meal Policy

Supt. James Dawson of the Lincoln Roman Catholic Diocese has announced a free and reduced-price meal policy for Lincoln Catholic school children.

The policy is based on federal income guidelines.

Families generally eligible, for example, include a family of four with an income of less than $4,726 (for free meals) or an income of less than $5,428 (for reduced price meals).

Father Dawson said cost of a reduced price breakfast will not exceed 10 cents, while the cost of a reduced price lunch will not exceed 20 cents.

"Eligibility determinations are made on a family basis," Dawson explained, noting that all children in the same family will qualify on the same basis.

"Unusual circumstances such as illness or death in the family will also be taken into consideration," he said.

He said local elementary principals will review applications and determine eligibility.

An appeal of that ruling may be filed, and the elementary superintendent will act as the hearing officer.

"The policy also provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against any student unable to pay the full cost of a meal," Father Dawson said in a prepared statement.

St. Patrick's School Will Offer Kindergarten Classes This Fall

Two Roman Catholic educators announced Monday that Lincoln's St. Patrick's School will reinstitute classes for kindergartners this fall.

The decision was announced by Father Ivan Vap and Sister Majella Arens.

They said the action was intended to "complete the elementary offerings and give continuity to the program at the school."

They said "it is also hoped that this will indicate to the community the intention to retain and improve St. Patrick's School."

There have been reports from the Havelock area, where the school is located, that Catholic educators were phasing out St. Patrick's, but the reports were subsequently denied.

The school is located at 6126 Morrill Avenue.

Kindergarten classes in Lincoln's Catholic schools were dropped several years ago, and have been rescheduled in several schools more recently.

Monday's announcement said parents from St. Patrick's and

St. John's parishes were invited to take advantage of the new kindergarten offering. Classes begin Aug. 31.

General Claims SAC 'Must Stay Competitive'

If the Strategic Air Command (SAC) is to remain the "potent power for peace that it has been for the last 25 years," it must stay competitive, the SAC commander-in-chief said Monday.

Gen. John C. Meyer, speaking at the Nebraska-Iowa District Kiwanis convention in Lincoln, said that SAC is presently a "well-oiled military machine."

He said that SAC's first and most important mission is not to wage war, but to deter it, and that SAC is earning the reputation of being a formidable deterrent for less than nuclear wars.

"Had the North Vietnamese known the price they would have to pay for the Easter offensive—a price calculated in lost lives, destroyed supplies, disappointment and defeat—they never would have launched that offensive. They would have been deterred," he said.

Modernization Needed

Looking into the future, however, Gen. Meyer said he saw the need for continuing the current U.S. defense strategy and the need for modernization.

Cited by Gen. Meyer as reasons for those needs were:

—the deployed "Y" class Soviet ballistic missile force is rapidly building, and could be as large as the U.S. Fleet's ballistic missile force next year.

—the mainland Chinese might be able to deploy some medium range ballistic missiles this year.

—Soviet testing of a Soviet independently-traceable re-entry vehicle could begin in

Young People Can Be Involved —Health Official

A local health planning official has told the sixth annual convention of the National Youth Association for Retarded Children that young people can be involved in prevention of mental retardation through area health planning councils.

The suggestion was made in a speech to the convention in Pittsburgh by Ronald N. Gustafson, planning assistant for personal health for the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council.

Gustafson told the youths that the area councils, such as southeast Nebraska's, can "be a major focus for involvement in community decision-making for young people interested in prevention of mental retardation."

He urged his audience to use their "special areas of knowledge and enthusiasm to promote interest in preventive measures."

two to three months with such a system capable of being deployed within two years.

—the Moscow anti-ballistic missile system is being improved and a new ABM being tested.

—new Soviet fighter aircraft are entering the Soviet inventory.

Public Support

In order to meet the need for modernization, Gen. Meyer called for public support, particularly support for the BI bomber now being developed.

About 1,100 Kiwanis members were in attendance at the convention, according to chairman Fay Moore. The convention closes Tuesday.

On Tuesday's schedule are election of officers and a luncheon speech by Wes H. Bartlett, president of Kiwanis International.

Little Art Corp. Asks Overturn Of Conviction

The Little Art Corp. of Omaha asked the Nebraska Supreme Court Monday to overturn an obscenity conviction handed down by the Douglas County Court last February.

The appeal based its argument on such questions as the definition of obscenity and the Constitution's free speech provisions.

The brief contends that the "contemporary community standards" used in defining obscenity were never spelled out or applied to the case. This it said, constituted insufficient evidence for the conviction.

The firm was fined a total of $4,000 for four films shown and was ordered not to circulate the films elsewhere.

Blazing Orange Distinguishes Illinois Delegates

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Illinois delegates can be spotted easily in the Republican National Convention hall this year by their flaming orange blazers, souvenirs that cost them $66 each.

"We decided to pick our state colors," said Jayne Price of Chicago's 7th District. "They're orange and blue. They really stand out, don't they?"

Asked if the 58 delegates and 58 alternates objected paying for the colorful polyester blazers, she said, "No. They're very practical. We can wear them anywhere. I'll use mine for campaigning around the state."

Reforms In Safety Act Predicted After Election

By United Press International
Congress will make basic reforms in the controversial Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) of 1970, but not until after the November election, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., predicted Monday.

"I do not look for any basic reform in the occupational safety and health law until after the election, but I'm confident that we're going to get it," Curtis told the Lincoln Executive Club at a noon luncheon.

The Republican senator said in the interim, he is certain an exemption will be re-enacted for small businesses to relieve them from "the unreasonable burdens of the present law."

Curtis was the chief sponsor in the Senate of a rider attached to the U.S. Labor Department appropriations measure which exempted firms having 15 or less employees from OSHA provisions. However, the labor measure was vetoed last week by President Nixon, who said it exceeded his spending recommendations.

"The vetoed bill will have to be re-enacted," Curtis told the group. "I'm confident that we will again write in the small business exemption, since both houses of Congress approved it previously."

The senator acknowledged the exemption "is not the final answer," but said it was necessary on at least a temporary basis because of the extensive requirements under the act.

Curtis also said he was pleased with the showing made by six Nebraska witnesses who testified at a hearing last month during a Senate analysis of the effects of the act.

He said the witnesses before the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee stressed the need to disperse the powers of inspectors so they will not be prosecutors, juries and judges in addition to policemen.

Council Urges Filing Of NE Sewage Plant Fund Application

The City Council Monday unanimously called upon Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf to file soon as possible an application for federal funding for development and construction of the Northeast Sewage Treatment Plant.

Council action resulted from recent budget discussions on the sewage treatment plant, in which several council members expressed concern that construction of the facility was being delayed.

Funds for initial construction are included in the 1973-74 capital improvements budget, with construction slated to begin Sept. 1, 1973.

Two weeks ago at a budget discussion, Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker told the council that at least one year would elapse before the application receives federal approval.

In other action the council:

- approved a Third Reading of the charges for grave space and service charge for excavating and closing graves at Fairview Cemetery.
- approved accepting the plat of Plosky Valley, at No. 14th near Superior.
- approved water district for six-inch main in Adams from 14th to 6th.

- approved sewer district for eight-inch sanitary sewer in 57th from Stockwell to Cooper.
- approved water district for six-inch main in 57th from Stockwell to Cooper.
- approved alley repaving district between 8th and 9th and O and N.
- approved one week water district for six-inch water main in Garland.
- approved Public Hearings.
- postponed until Sept. 25th, special permit application of Rolie Johnson to develop mobile home court, near 40th and Cornhusker Hwy.
- looked no action on application of Homer Leland for special permit to develop mobile home court, south of Arnold Heights and west of NW 48th.
- postponed one week application of Motel Corp. for special permit to develop mobile home court west of No. 1st and Fairfield.
- extended six months special permit granted to Jerome Milder to construct addition to existing nursing home, 1750 So. 30th.
- revoked special permit granted to Rose Lotman to construct and operate an off-street parking lot.
- postponed one week extending or revoking permission to Robert Gregerson to operate off-street parking lot, at 47th and Pioneer Blvd.
- approved application of Paul C. Staehr for a Package Liquor License, at 2222 O, set date of hearing 1:30 p.m., Sept. 2.
- appointed the following to Board of Electrical Examiners: Richard Noel Miller, expiring Aug. 15, 1973; James Edson, expiring Aug. 15, 1973; Appointed following to Electrical Code Advisory and Appeals Board: Eugene Farfleh, expiring Aug. 15, 1973; and Robert Oakes, to expire Aug. 15, 1973 (filling unexpired term of Neil Tinsard).
- approved permitting use of public right-of-way by H-H, Inc. for Lincoln Hilton, at 9th and P.
- ordered constructed Paving District 2173 for all internal streets in Trenchwood 5th Add.
- ordered constructed Paving District 2177 for W. Washington from west-line of Lot 4, Blk. 3, Westland Heights Add. to west line of Westland Heights 1st Add.
- postponed one week action on paving district for 54th from north curb line of Adams to south curb line of Gladstone.
- set public hearings for Aug. 26th relating to certain special permits, revoking or extending: Application of Chris Roach for trailer court at West A. and Polson; Application of Austin Realty for a community unit plan at 76th and Lexington; and application of Dr. H. Cack and Dr. J. Weesner for addition to existing clinic, at 1225 W. A.
- set public hearings for Sept. 5th: application of Robert Van Pelt and Lloyd Marti for parking lot, at 48th and Normal Blvd.; application of Four Seasons Equity Corp. on SW corner of 40th and Pioneer for child care center; application of Nebraska Realty Dev. Corp. for mobile home court, at 50th and Old Cheney Rd.
- set public hearings for Sept. 11th for application of NBC trustees for new front yard-parking lot, between 18th and 19th and K and L; application of Judas Bros. Const. for addition to radio station KLMs, at 1025 So. 84th.

NE Library Is Budgeted $18,000

By a split 4 to 3 vote Monday the City Council voted to include $18,000 in the 1972-73 budget for continued operation of the Northeast Branch Library, at 27th and Orchard.

Councilman Steve Cook cast the tie-breaking vote — thus keeping the library open one more year. Cook was absent Thursday night during a similar vote on the library which resulted in a 3 to 3 tie.

Council members Helen Boosalis, Cook, Harry Peterson and Bob Sikyta voted to add funds for the facility, while Dick Baker, Merle Hale and Dick Hartsock opposed such a move.

Controversy over the facility evolved following a decision of the Library Board to close the old library, citing little usage and high operating costs.

In other action the council added $15,000 for the Lincoln Area-wide Model Project on Aging, but decided against adding funds for improvement of the open drainage ditch in the median of 68th between Fremont and Adams.

Instead, stressing the need to follow its priority list, the council directed Public Works director Bob Obering to increase maintenance care of the ditch, which has caused erosion problems. The project is number 61 on the list.

Raise Signed For Federal Employees

Washington (AP) — President Nixon Monday signed a bill to give many of the government's 650,000 blue collar workers a four per cent pay raise by next April 30.

The President vetoed a less generous pay raise last year, saying it would fuel "the fires of inflation." Under the new law, employees in the fifth step would be 12% above the average private enterprise rate.

The bill adds two within-grade pay steps to the present three steps. It also will bring 175,000 non-appropriated fund employees under the wage board pay system, with all its fringe benefits.

The raises will take effect when economic controls are lifted, but no later than April 30, 1973.

Those who already have 104 weeks in step three of the current system would advance to step four immediately. Others would first have to complete 104 weeks.

The new law also will give employees a 7.5% differential for the first night shift and 10% for the second, and it will guarantee two years salary whenever employees are downgraded through no fault of their own.

Hearing Planned On Bus Routes

A public hearing on two proposed bus routes will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City Council Chambers at the County-City Building.

The hearing will be held before the Lincoln Transportation System Board, which is proposing the Crosstown and West A-Up bus routes.

LITTLE RED

Just pull her string, she says her thing.

If you like Nebraska football, you'll love Little Red, our new Cornhusker Cheerleader Talking Doll. Just pull her string and she'll say any one of seven different Big Red cheers. You'd expect to pay a lot more for this genuine Mattel Toymakers doll, if you could buy one in a store.

But she's yours for only $5.95 when you save $25 or more or open a new $100 checking account. Why not get several for the Little Red fans at your house? Just pull her string, she says her thing. Go Little Red!

SPORT SIGNALS

By Hal Brown

Associated Press Wrong Twice

When the Philadelphia Phils Steve Carlton won his 19th game and his 14th straight, The Associated Press reported he was the first left-hander in 41 years to win 14 in a row.

The Associated Press was wrong twice. They reported that Lefty Grove in 1931 was the last southpaw to win 14 straight. Grove did it in 1928, not 1931 and he wasn't the last left-hander to win that many in a row.

Bob Budde, one of Lincoln's most knowledgeable sports fans caught the goof immediately, noting that Carl Hubbell, a left-hander, won 16 in a row for the New York Giants in 1936.

Alex Karras, the former Iowa and Detroit Lions griddle who's doing commentary on Canadian Football League telecasts, recalls that when he finished his career at Iowa and was drafted by the Lions, it was in the days before the big bonuses.

"I used to call them collect and they'd refuse the call," he recalls.

Odd Jobs Department — Arkansas football players Jim and Clark Irwin operate their own chicken vaccination business during the summer months in Springdale, Ark.

Something Red In Purple Country

Not everything at Kansas State is purple. The girl gracing the center page of the K-State football brochure is clad in a red bikini.

Las Vegas oddsmaker Jimmy (The Greek) Snyder says Nebraska is an early 13-point favorite over UCLA for their Sept. 9 opener in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Colorado assistant football coach Dan Stavelly, who calls Buffs quarterback Joe Duenas, "quick as a hiccup," admits the little 5-6 signal caller has one major handicap.

"He's all right as long as you're not in a position where you have to throw the football," Stavelly says. "But if you're behind and have to throw, he's in trouble because of his lack of height.

"Last year against Nebraska when our regular quarterback Ken Johnson was hurt and we were behind, Duenas trying to throw against those big linemen such as Larry Jacobson was like trying to throw out of a well."

Street and Smith Football Yearbook which lists favorites and underdogs for all games played by major colleges has Nebraska tabbed as the favorite for all 11 games, but the magazine picks Arkansas as its national champion with the Huskers second.

Horses Same As People

John Nerud, the Nebraska native who a year ago was inducted in the Nebraska Racing Hall of Fame at Ak-Sar-Ben and who recently was enshrined in the National Racing Hall of Fame, is one of the world's best-respected authorities on the training of race horses.

He claims a good trainer has to have a lot of psychology in him, noting that horses are much the same as people.

"A race horse, says Nerud, "has got to WANT to run before he's going to run. Like human athletes, their needs must be anticipated and then supplied on a day-by-day proposition."

A horse is in 'solitary confinement' for 23 hours a day, he points out.

"No matter how sharp he may be physically," John stresses, "he must have that overwhelming desire to run — and win. Like people, their moods change from time to time.

"It takes close attention to details and constant scrutiny to be able to keep a horse happy."

A Forthright Translation

Jack Williams, president of Texas A & M, a Nebraska football foe again this fall, was testifying before a House-Senate Committee on Appropriations when he was asked by Rep. Neil Caldwell of Angleton, Tex., "I've always wanted to know what 'hulabaloo kaneck kaneck' means."

Williams replied, "It is Chickasaw Indian for 'Beat the hell out of the University of Texas.'"

It should hardly come as a surprise, but that probation handed Oklahoma State football players Barry Price and Ray Ennis last spring was only for the summer, a period during which the Cowboys' football schedule showed no games. Both have been re-instated for the fall.

Kansas State's entire football team this fall will be shod in white shoes with a purple stripe.

Vote an award to the guy who, when asked by his wife the reason for his arrival home at 5:30 a.m., answered, "Breakfast."

Prep Gridders Begin Practice

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Writer

More than 500 athletes at Lincoln's five high schools reported for the first day of football practice Monday.

Defending Class A state champion East had the most reporting for opening-day drills. "We had 126 check out today and expect more in the next couple of days," East coach Lee Zentle noted.

Northeast had 121 hopefuls report, Southeast 116, Lincoln High 91 and Class B Pius X 72.

Pius X coach Vince Aldrich is the dean of the Capital City football coaches. Monday marked the start of his 23rd season at the school.

Zentle is beginning his sixth year at East, Frank Solich his fifth at Southeast, Bob Els his third at Northeast and Jerry Ball his first at Lincoln High after serving as an Omaha Tech assistant coach the past six seasons.

"We looked good today," Ball said after running the Links through a two-hour practice Monday morning. "We're pretty far along conditioning-wise, especially our seniors."

Thirteen lettermen reported to Ball, who will be assisted by former Nebraska player Marv Mueller. Bill Story and Tom McClelland, another ex-Cornhusker, are in charge of the reserve team. Joe Folsom and Glen Hergenrader coach the sophomore team.

"I'm very pleased with this morning," Aldrich said as the Thunderbolts practiced. "We thought a few boys might not come out, but everyone that indicated they would did." Nine lettermen reported.

Dick Caster, Don Kelley and Joe Hughes assist Aldrich, whose club opens the season against Lincoln High Sept. 8.

Thirteen lettermen, including six returning defensive starters, reported to Els, who's assisted by Barry Alvarez, Clayton Luther and Bill Fagler coach the reserves and Hank Willemsen and Gale Cook tutor the sophomore team. Two of Southeast's 10 1971 lettermen failed to report to Solich, who said he's "not real sure we'll have the depth we had thought we would." Sixty-one sophomores reported.

He's assisted by Wally Win-ter, Denny Puelz and Joe Buda coach the reserve team and Wally McNaught and Rod Stall coach the Knight sophomores.

All 13 of East's lettermen turned out for the first day of practice.

East, Northeast and Lincoln High are conducting three-day practices at least until Wednesday, the first day that players may wear pads and participate in contact.

Lincoln, will give experience at the offensive tackle position. Rick Grell and Jeff Munnis will fill the flanker position.

Some of the new personnel he hopes will help out on offense include Jack Ball, Lincoln East's leading pass catcher and scorer; Dave Smith former Pius X star just returning from the service; Ed McMeen and Steve Robinson, Lincoln Northeast, candidates for offensive guard spots; Randy Snell, Crete, offensive back; Clint Kimbrough, Geneva's leading scorer and yard gainer; Moneford Royer, Ashland, a returning serviceman; Jim Grant a transfer out of Oak Crest, N. J.; and Daniel Fassnacht, tight end candidate from Sutton.

Three men were lost from the starting defensive team of last year, all in the back-field. Chaffee expects to try Bill Ashburn, offensive fullback letterman last year, in the defensive backfield and to move Reed Stephenson from linebacker to defensive back if Aaron Gruber, freshman and Dave Michel, Bradshaw, two sophomore lettermen, can hold down the linebacking chores, along with Dan Dye, Bradshaw sophomore letterman. Scott Dodson, Venango sophomore letterman, will get a shot at the safety post.

Returning defensive lettermen include Tom Parminter, Stromsburg, kick-off and punt return specialist and defensive corner-man: Gene Boeka, Grand Island, backfield;

J.; and Daniel Fassnacht, tight end candidate from Sutton.

Three men were lost from the starting defensive team of last year, all in the back-field. Chaffee expects to try Bill Ashburn, offensive fullback letterman last year, in the defensive backfield and to move Reed Stephenson from linebacker to defensive back if Aaron Gruber, freshman and Dave Michel, Bradshaw, two sophomore lettermen, can hold down the linebacking chores, along with Dan Dye, Bradshaw sophomore letterman. Scott Dodson, Venango sophomore letterman, will get a shot at the safety post.

Returning defensive lettermen include Tom Parminter, Stromsburg, kick-off and punt return specialist and defensive corner-man: Gene Boeka, Grand Island, backfield;

Lincoln, will give experience at the offensive tackle position. Rick Grell and Jeff Munnis will fill the flanker position.

Some of the new personnel he hopes will help out on offense include Jack Ball, Lincoln East's leading pass catcher and scorer; Dave Smith former Pius X star just returning from the service; Ed McMeen and Steve Robinson, Lincoln Northeast, candidates for offensive guard spots; Randy Snell, Crete, offensive back; Clint Kimbrough, Geneva's leading scorer and yard gainer; Moneford Royer, Ashland, a returning serviceman; Jim Grant a transfer out of Oak Crest, N. J.; and Daniel Fassnacht, tight end candidate from Sutton.

Colts Win First Game As Chiefs Lose, 23-17

... NU'S KINNEY CATCHES TD PASS

Kansas City (AP) — The Baltimore Colts, playing almost entirely without Johnny Unitas, injected life into their sputtering offense late in the game and stole some of Kansas City's vaunted defensive tactics for their first victory of the season, a surprising 23-17 verdict over the Colts Monday night.

It was the first loss of the National Football League exhibition season after four tests for the Chiefs, Baltimore had lost both of its previous starts and failed to score a touchdown in either.

Unitas, the Colts' 39-year-old quarterback, had a hand in only two plays before he suffered a neck injury. He walked off the field and was taken to a hospital for X rays which proved negative.

The crowd of 76,882 watched the Colts' defense throw the Chiefs' quarterbacks, Len Dawson and John Huarte, for heavy losses.

The Chiefs, a study of frustration, had to settle for a 27-yard field goal by Jan Stenerud in the first half. Late in the game, Huarte hit Jeff Kinney, the rookie from Nebraska's No. 1 ranked team, for 52 yards and a touchdown. Stenerud converted.

The Chiefs played without their leading rusher, Ed Podolak, sidelined with a twisted ankle.

Chiefs Coach Hank Stram said he couldn't remember when "I've ever been—the word is—ashamed. It was a shameful expression of football. We got the hell kicked out of us."

"I can't remember when we've played a lousier football game. The only thing about the game is that it's a preseason game."

"There were some good moments. Huarte came off the bench and did a real fine job for us. I thought Kinney did a good job and Otis did a good job too."

Don McCafferty, the Colts coach, praised the Baltimore defense which he said "had to show us how to score touchdowns and I think we found a quarterback. Marty Domres played real well and had to be thrust into the game after John Unitas was injured."

"I think we're going to be okay now. Once we get back to Baltimore and get settled we should be able to be ready for the season."

Fishing Activity Slowed

Anglers in Nebraska have been driven away from their favorite waters by the recent heat wave, as Game and Parks Commission conservation officers report light fishing pressure across the state.

According to the officer's report, outdoor activity around Nebraska includes:

SOUTHEAST
Little Blue River (Thayer County) — carp to three pounds hitting corn and doughballs; catfish to three pounds on night fishing.

Platte River (Cass County) — catfish on grasshoppers and sand loads; bluegill on worms during the day; bluegill to six pounds at night; bluegill and crappie.

SOUTHWEST
Johnson Lake (Lexington) — white bass at the inlet to one pound; catfish to 10 pounds grabbing shad; walleye to four pounds; bluegill to three pounds at the south end of the lake.

Divisions (Lexington area) — catfish on grasshoppers and sand loads; bluegill on worms during the day; bluegill to six pounds at night; bluegill and crappie.

Gallagher Canyon Reservoir (Cotard) — catfish to three pounds on night fishing; bluegill on worms during the day; bluegill to six pounds at night; bluegill and crappie.

PANHANDLE
Lake McCaughy — a few white bass to 15 pounds, taking minnows, hitting artificial lures, and taking shad; white bass to 10 pounds, hitting minnows and artificial lures.

Lake Ogallala — catfish to 2 1/2 pounds taking shad and shrimp in early mornings and late evenings.

Lake Minatere — a few walleye, bluegill and shad, taking shad, spinner-worm combinations; perch to 10 inches going for worms.

SAND HILLS
Merritt Reservoir (Valentine) — white bass and walleye on trout artificial lures; bluegill, perch and bluegill taking still-fished worms.

Missouri River (Decatur to Fort Calhoun) — catfish to 14 inches hitting artificial lures.

Sooners Open Fall Practices

Norman, Okla. (AP) — The stress was on the fundamentals Monday as Oklahoma opened fall drills in preparation for the Big Eight football campaign.

The Sooners will hold brief, three-day workouts through Wednesday without pads. Two-day workouts with pads begin Thursday. All practices are closed to the public.

Two players recuperating from summer knee operations were among the 120 varsity hopefuls and will be watched closely.

They are defensive ends Tommy Saunders and quarterback Gary Vorpahl. Robert Jensen, offensive guard who has had a history of knee problems, was reported in good condition.

Triplets Clinch Title

Omaha (AP) — Evansville right-hander Gene Ammon blanked Omaha 2-0 in American Association baseball Monday night to clinch the league's Eastern Division championship for the triplets.

By JON NORDHEIMER

San Francisco — The flights from Saigon and Da Nang reach California in 18 hours, telescoping night into day and into night again. And the big jet transports drop out of the Pacific sky to land at Travis Air Force Base as another sunrise rims the high peaks of the Sierra Nevada range far to the east.

On board the planes are sleepy young soldiers, members of the dwindling force of American troops in Vietnam, coming home from a war in a strange land that they had served with gradations of comprehension and devotion.

They step out on the chilled Tarmac and stretch and shiver. The temperature is more than 30 degrees cooler here in Northern California than it had been the day before in Vietnam.

It is the first shock of re-entry for the Vietnam veteran. In the coming months, as the veterans fan out into America and try to pick up the threads of the life they had left behind, there will be more.

For it is now becoming clear, at a time when it is almost too late to do anything about it, that a significant number of Vietnam veterans are encountering serious reentry problems on return to civilian life that, for some at least, is as severe a test of emotional stability as any stress they encountered in the service.

Post-Vietnam Syndrome

The ailment has been called the post-Vietnam syndrome, or PVS. But the term is not sufficiently broad to encompass the wide range of emotional problems that some of the veterans are experiencing.

Just what Vietnam service does to a young man emotionally — the post-Vietnam syndrome — is difficult to define. But it is clearly the effect of the shattering experience of war itself, with the added ingredient that this war, unlike others, does not give many of the men who wage it feelings of patriotism, heroism or even purpose.

The men who suffer post-Vietnam syndrome are not dramatically ill. They do not go berserk or totally withdraw. Instead they are bewildered, disillusioned, unable to cope. Their problems usually crop up after they leave the service, and previous indications of trouble almost always went unnoticed by the military.

For the last two years, the government has declared that the special circumstances of combat in Vietnam produced the lowest psychiatric casualty rate in the history of modern American warfare.

The Defense Department contended that the rate of mental breakdowns was 12 per 1,000 troops; the corresponding rate for Korea was 37 per 1,000, and in World War II it was 101 per 1,000.

These figures are hotly disputed by private physicians who have made empirical studies of the PVS. And the debate has taken on political overtones that have chilled the issue, with the government digging in to defend its policies against what is perceived in Washington as an attack by critics of the war.

Essentially, the government has viewed the problem as mild compared with the staggering number of combat-zone breakdowns that occurred among World War II servicemen.

The critics have countered that what they describe as the government's blandness and intransigence, produced by a desire to gain public support for the Nixon administration's war policy, were contributing to a mental health disaster for the more than five million soldiers, sailors and airmen who had served in Vietnam.

Problem Building

There is evidence that the problem is more pervasive than has been acknowledged by the government, and may indeed be building to a social problem of serious magnitude.

Yet it is equally apparent from an extensive survey that the problem is slow to develop and difficult to identify and that its complexities defy easy explanations.

One interpretation advanced in some psychiatric quarters is that guilt over participation in a war many see as immoral is disturbing the veteran upon his return home.

Unquestionably, that is a source of dislocation for some of the better educated and more sensitive veterans, as typified by the outcries of the Vietnam Veterans against the War. To some extent it may be detected in many others who have made no overt antiwar expression and may even support the country's Vietnam policies, the survey showed.

But for the majority of the emotionally distressed veterans, it would appear that the restive nature of American society itself is a contributing factor.

And the rapidly changing values the veteran finds at home — the hostility of his peers, the guilt of his parents and the disinterest of his community — may combine with a poor job market to keep him off balance from the moment he takes off his uniform.

The survey made clear that in the majority of cases the emotional disorders of men who have served in Vietnam showed up not in the combat zone, but after the return to the United States. This, unlike other wars, has been the chief psychiatric phenomenon of Vietnam for the American soldier.

In some hospitals, more than 80% of the mental patients suffered breakdowns after discharge from the military service. What is not known, when these figures are compared to past experience, is to what extent the greater sophistication about mental illness has contributed to a willingness among veterans to seek professional help than in the past.

Government Help Lacking

Another finding was that the government has been less than diligent in providing resources to investigate the nature of emotional illness that the veteran brings home from Vietnam and to deliver health care services to him.

Although the rate of full-blown psychosis among Vietnam servicemen has been low, and in line with what would be expected among this age group in the general population (for schizophrenia, about 8.5 per 1,000), the emotional problems in the greater number of cases have been characterized by anxiety, disillusionment, bewilderment, apathy and listlessness—fairly mild disorders that nonetheless can be as disabling in a social setting as schizophrenia.

Only infrequently does the ailment reach a point where the individual becomes a problem to society and is remanded for psychiatric care.

Usually, because the Vietnam veteran tends to come from a low socio-economic or minority group where his tensions and fears cannot find easy access to mental health care, his "odd" behavior or inactivity simply goes unnoticed or is dismissed as inconsequential to the community's safety.

This lack of access, it has been found, has led to the growing usage of drugs by the veteran in the United States whether he had been addicted in Vietnam or not. The availability of drugs in this country, as it had been in Vietnam, can offer instant escape from tensions and anxiety, whether these fears have been created by the weapons of war or the more subtle hazards of civilian life.

Moreover, it was found that bureaucratic red tape and the lack of focus of resources have cut psychiatric services to the veteran, should he seek help. The Veterans Administration has only in the last year officially recognized the scope of the problem and moved to adjust its program of care for the emotionally disturbed veteran.

Dispense Tranquilizers

Yet a shortage of qualified psychiatric personnel still makes the VA's 165 hospitals largely dependent on the dispensing of tranquilizers as the primary treatment schedule.

The best and most effective treatment of the PVS, when it is detected, would appear to be sympathetic counseling, which is what the VA has attempted to introduce in the last year. But the professional staffs have been strained by the rising number of veterans seeking help, particularly in the urban areas where they are doing more counseling work with drug addicts.

Another drain on manpower is the large number of neurological casualties coming home from Vietnam — men with damaged brains whose lives have been saved by the new technology of surgery and medicine, but who have been deprived of the mental resources to care for themselves.

In 1967, only a small number of the VA's hospital beds were occupied by Vietnam veterans; by 1972, more than 50,000 psychiatric in-patients from Vietnam were being cared for and a larger number sought help in outpatient clinics, and admissions have grown each year.

Selassie Gave Life To Ethiopia

©The New York Times
London Times Dispatch
London — Present-day Ethiopia is the creation of one man, Emperor Haile Selassie I whose 80th birthday was celebrated this summer.

To history Ethiopia owes its traditional institutions and the instinctive reactions of its people to events. But to the emperor it owes all the progress made towards becoming a modern state. Such progress dates from the time of World War I when, as Ras Tafari, he was crowned king.

Without some knowledge of the country's history, it is scarcely possible to appreciate its present problems.

The keynotes of this history are geographical isolation, racial and cultural uniqueness and a constant struggle for the preservation of independence. Three thousand years of such history are not dispelled within a generation.

The country was isolated because it was cut off from the rest of Africa by deserts, and from the rest of the world because during most of its history there was no access to the sea. The present emperor was the first ruler to travel abroad. During his reign education and air transport have steadily reduced this isolation.

The people are unique. Though situated in Africa, they do not belong to the Negro and Bantu groups which predominate in the African continent. Their ethnic basis is Hamitic, akin to the Berbers and ancient Egyptians; and the Amhara of the highlands, who form the kernel of the Ethiopian polity, are of Semitic origin. Yet, though Semite, they are Christians and, though Christians, their Christianity is somewhat tenuously related to the Christianity of the West.

The reforms introduced by Emperor Haile Selassie during his lifetime may be summarized under three heads: political, educational, and economic.

The first necessity was to establish the authority of the central government after the decline in previous centuries.

It was left to Haile Selassie to replace the provincial rases and tribal chiefs by regularly appointed governors administering the provinces through the Ministry of the Interior. This was followed.

step by step, by the creation of a modern government, framed perhaps on American rather than British lines.

Cautious. Today the main organs of government are the Council of Ministers and the Chamber of Deputies. The prime minister is appointed by the emperor, who is both head of state and head of government.

The ministers are, in effect, career civil servants, not politicians, and although they have the right of addressing the chamber, they are not members of it. Thus their lines of responsibility run upwards, to the emperor, rather than downwards, to the members of the chamber. These are elected on a wide franchise, but are mostly landowners of a conservative bent.

The Chamber of Deputies is by no means without powers. But, ironically, it is apt to use them in obstructing progressive legislation originating from ministers. In the provinces, the administration is responsible for running local government assisted by councils of elders on which, in Christian areas, the church still exercises considerable influence.

Such is the Ethiopian political framework today — orderly, slightly ponderous, out of fashion, but capable of adaptation to a changed style of government if that should be the intention of the crown prince when he succeeds to the throne, and an almost revolutionary advance on anything that existed in the country at the time of the emperor's accession.

Next to the establishment of a central political authority the prime need was for education. Without it there could be no progress and central government could not be made to work.

The emperor put the whole weight of his authority behind educational development, including the sending of students abroad for higher education and the establishment of a university in Addis Ababa. By doing so he was, like the colonial powers next door to him, encouraging a force which would ultimately challenge established authority.

Economic development has been slower than might have been hoped. It would have been faster if the country had possessed exploitable mineral resources, but few have so far been found, though the government lives in hopes of a breakthrough. Agricultural development alone is notoriously the slowest form of economic development in any country, especially when it is hampered by bad communications, an antiquated system of land tenure and lack of trained provincial administrative services.

Cattleman Rustled Reward By Lying, Defense Charges

Oakland, Calif. (UPI) — Alameda County's first cattle rustling trial in a decade opened Monday with the defense claiming a rancher lied about the suspect to get a $1,000 reward.

Robert L. Sweeden, 30, of San Leandro, was arrested March 17 after police found the hide of a calf in his car. The hide had the "Lazy L" brand of a ranch in nearby Livermore.

Defense attorneys said the owner of the ranch, Lawrence Marciel, lied by saying Sweeden stole the calf. They said Marciel was trying to get a reward from the California Cattleman's Association.

Sweeden had the privilege of hunting on the ranch, they said, adding he had bought the calf for $45 from Marciel.

Policeman William Strong told the jury that he found the hide in the trunk of Sweeden's car on the San Leandro waterfront. Near the car, he said, he found a box of entrails.

Body Of Boy, 9, Is Found Near Omaha Bridge

Council Bluffs, Iowa (UPI) — The body of a 9-year-old boy who drowned in the Missouri River near Blair Saturday was found in the river near the South Omaha bridge Monday.

The body was identified as that of Kenneth Sigby Jr. by his father, Kenneth Sr. The family had been living in the Omaha area for about a month after moving from Texas.

The boy and his mother were wading in the river under the Blair bridge, about 25 miles north of here when the current swept them into the river channel. Mrs. Sigby was rescued by a fisherman but Kenneth's body was swept downstream.

English? British Lords Settled That

London (UPI) — Britain officially joins the Common Market next Jan. 1, bringing with it what former war correspondent the Earl of Lauderdale calls "the priceless gift of the English language."

As it emerges from the House of Lords, English may prove to be a mixed blessing.

The lords — specializing in more leisurely scrutiny of bills that may have passed through the House of Commons in some haste — recently was debating one of the many pieces of legislation necessary to put Britain into the European Economic Community (EEC).

Lord Lauderdale, a Scots conservative and an opponent of Britain's entry into the EEC, proposed an amendment to the language of one section of the bill concerned with motion pictures dealing with evidence.

Instead of reading, "to show the film is a community film," he told his fellow peers the sentence should read: "to show that the film is a community film" — inserting the word "that."

"I think that omission of this word is without precedent in a parliamentary bill after such verbs as 'say' and 'declare,'"

Lord Lauderdale said. "The word may have been omitted in some instances by Chaucer and even by Shakespeare, but it is essential in this sentence."

"A very large part of the world speaks and writes English," he noted. "If Britain is to join the Common Market and bestow the priceless gift of the English language, it would be well if our legislation were grammatically correct."

But Lord Drumalbyn, a fellow Scot, had been doing some research on the subject.

Rising with a copy of Fowler's dictionary in hand, he proceeded to quote examples of the use of "that," including: "I know that my redeemer liveth" and "I know that I like you."

The dictionary said both these sentences were grammatically correct. Lord Drumalbyn said, but it also explained the modern tendency was to omit "that."

The sentence Lord Lauderdale was talking about was grammatically correct as it stood and whether "that" would improve it was a purely a matter of taste. Lord Lauderdale's taste.

Lord Lauderdale saw it as a test of good faith on the part of the government, and so he was prepared to push it to a vote. The vote went against him, 120-36. No "that."

Such lease will be sold in accordance with the laws of the State of Nebraska, under Section 21-190 et seq., R.R.S. Nebraska 1940. Release of 1970, and hereby adopt the following Articles of Incorporation:

ARTICLE I: NAME

The name of the Corporation is the Open-Door Health Center.

ARTICLE II: DURATION

The Corporation shall have perpetual existence, unless sooner dissolved as provided by law and shall commence business on the date these Articles of Incorporation are filed and recorded.

ARTICLE III: PURPOSES

The purpose or purposes for which the Corporation is organized are:

1. GENERAL PURPOSES. Exclusively for charitable testing for public safety and educational purposes and for the use of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and the Internal Revenue Code of 1962.

The Corporation is formed to provide medical, psychological, dental, social and related services to anyone requesting them and not covered by a third party. Payment shall be on a non-payment basis. Toward this end the Open-Door Health Center will engage in the business of providing for such ailments on a non-appointment basis: to help the needy patient overcome his physical and mental, emotional, or para-medical personnel to treat, diagnose, and counsel; as well as refer to existing public health agencies if such services are deemed necessary. The underlying purpose of the Corporation is to develop ways to serve that portion of the community whose needs are not adequately met by established facilities and to offer our encouragement and assistance to other organizations with similar purposes.

ARTICLE IV: RESTRICTIONS

The following additional purposes are inserted for the regulation of the affairs of the Corporation:

1. FINANCIAL AND POLITICAL ACTIVITIES. No substantial part of the Corporation's assets shall be expended in attempting to influence legislation by propaganda or otherwise, or directly or indirectly, in the interest of any individual (including the publishing or distributing of statements), any political party or candidate for public office.

ARTICLE V: DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS AND DISSOLUTION. Upon dissolution of the Corporation, the remaining assets if any shall be distributed to one or more organizations organized and operated exclusively for the promotion of the scientific, literary, or educational purposes within the meaning of Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, as now in force or afterwards amended, or as directors of the Corporation shall determine. Such assets not so distributed shall be distributed to the County Court of the County in which the registered office of the Corporation is then located to be used for the purposes of the Corporation in the manner as in the judgment of such court will best accomplish the general purposes for which the Corporation was organized.

ARTICLE VI: PROHIBITED TRANSACTIONS. The Corporation shall not engage in prohibited transactions described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, as now in force or afterwards amended.

ARTICLE VII: ACCUMULATION OF INCOME. The Corporation shall not unreasonably accumulate income within the meaning of Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, as now in force or afterwards amended.

ARTICLE VIII: TRADE OR BUSINESS. The Corporation shall not be operated for the purpose of carrying on an unrelated trade or business as defined in Section 513 of the Internal Revenue Code, as now in force or afterwards amended.

ARTICLE IX: DISTRIBUTION OF EARNINGS. No part of the net earnings of the Corporation shall inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual within the meaning of Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, as now in force or afterwards amended.

ARTICLE X: COMPELATION. No compensation shall be paid to any member, officer, director, or substantial contributor of the Corporation, except as a reasonable allowance for services actually rendered to or for the Corporation.

ARTICLE XI: PUBLIC PURPOSE. The Corporation is organized for a public purpose. Accordingly, it shall not be operated for the benefit of private interests, such as contributors to or shareholders of the Corporation, or persons controlled directly or indirectly by such private interests.

ARTICLE XII: REGISTERED OFFICE. The address of the initial registered office of the Corporation is 2259 'V' Street, Apt. 10, under the name of its initial registered agent at such address: K. A. Springer.

ARTICLE XIII: DIRECTORS

The number of directors constituting the Board of Directors of the Corporation is to be not less than three and the names and addresses of the directors are to be as follows:

NAME ADDRESS

William W. Arfmann 2415 'V' Street
Richard Hammer 5000 N. 7th Street
LaDonna Beck 624 Summer

ARTICLE VII: BY-LAWS

The initial By-laws of the Corporation shall be adopted by the Board of Directors. Thereafter, the Directors shall have power to amend the By-laws at any annual, regular or special meeting, and the provisions for and the time of the annual and regular meetings and the method of calling special meetings shall be set forth in the By-laws.

ARTICLE VIII: PRIVATE PROPERTY

The private property of the individual directors of this Corporation shall be exempt from the debts of the Corporation and no director, officer or director shall be individually or collectively liable or responsible for any debts or liabilities of the Corporation.

ARTICLE IX: AMENDMENTS

The Corporation reserves the right to amend, alter, change, or repeal any provision contained in these Articles of Incorporation, or in any amendments hereafter prescribed by statute, by a majority vote of the Board of Directors.

The name and address of each incorporator is:

NAME ADDRESS

John Robinson 659 So. 20th St.
Pat McLaughlin 701 'V' St., Lincoln 68503

STATE OF NEBRASKA, a notary public, hereby certify that on the tenth day of August, 1972, personally appeared the above-named incorporators, John Robinson and Pat McLaughlin, who being by me first duly sworn, severally declared that they are the persons who signed the foregoing documents as incorporators and that the statements therein contained are true.

Witness my hand and the seal of the State of Nebraska at Lincoln, Nebraska, this 10th day of August, 1972.
